RUSSIANS KEEP UP RUMANIAN DRIVE

MOSCOW, March 23.—Victorious Russian legions, by capturing the important Pervomaisk railroad junction, unhinged the German defense arc above Nikolayev and Odessa and today threatened large Nazi forces massed about these enemy-held Black Sea ports.

Further to the northwest along a 500-mile-long Ukrainian battlefield, other Red army forces inflicted heavy casualties upon the enemy during violent battles within old Poland and drove steadily across Rumanian Bessarabia.

Falls After Fierce Battle

Pervomaisk, which until recently had been Nazi Field Marshal Fritz von Manstein's headquarters for directing retreat of badly-mauled German armies in the southern Ukraine, fell to the Red army after extremely fierce street battles of two days duration.

Soviet troops captured the rail hub by a two-directional blow against what the Russian communists described as "very favorable defensive positions."

Situated at the confluence of the Bug and Sinyukha rivers, Pervomaisk had been very heavily fortified. The Russian columns, however, bludgeoned their way into the city from north and east.

Garrison Wiped Out

"In fierce engagements, the German garrison was pressed to the southern Bug and wiped out," the official bulletin said. "Hundreds of Nazis were drowned in the river."

Increasing the threat to the Nikolayev naval base were other gains scored by the Red army. One Russian spearhead engulfed Balabanovka, only eight miles south of the strategic bastion, while another Soviet tank column "engaged the enemy on the approaches to the town of Voznesensk."

Front dispatches placed the advance guard less than seven miles from Voznesensk, which is a junction of seven strategic roads situated 50 miles north of Nikolayev.

The approach of Russian armies to the Balkans, Europe's historic power-keg, highlights the fact that if a stable peace is to follow the present war, as Americans so ardently hope, the policies and interests of the United States, Great Britain and Russia, the big three of the United Nations group, must be brought into harmony.

Otherwise, political and economic rivalries are only too likely to pave the way for even greater and more terrible conflicts later.

Washington Roundup

It is understood in Washington today that American diplomatic relations with Finland have been brought virtually on an hour-to-hour basis. If the state department finds there is no hope of Finland withdrawing from the war in the near future there's a strong possibility the United States will sever diplomatic relations with the Finns.

Finland has been urged to accept

Russia's peace terms by State Secretary Hull who is disclosed today to have asked members of the senate foreign relations committee to avoid precipitate debate over foreign problems which might spread animosity. Hull's request will appear in the next issue of the Congressional Record. Hull is demanding a more specific statement of American foreign policy. Hull discusses foreign policy tomorrow with a group of freshmen Republican representatives who asked for a clarification statement.

Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., enters the draft picture, meanwhile, with a demand that the projected size of the armed forces be cut to prevent further induction of fathers. Wheeler says up to the present a comparatively small percentage of the army is in actual combat.

Rep. May (D) Ky., chairman of the house military affairs committee says he will seek passage next week of a bill giving army air commissions to women pilots. The bill would bring the Wasps into the army and release men for overseas service. At the same time, farm state senators are meeting to discuss reports that the draft is being used as a threat to force farmers to join the AAA.

Demands of the CIO's steel workers union for more pay will be heard by a WLB panel tomorrow. The WLB decision to hear the case gives labor the first round in its campaign to break the little steel formula.

FURIOUS FIGHTING RAGES IN CASSINO

By JAMES L. KILGALLIE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

NAPLES, March 23.—

Roaring Allied artillery batteries, firing hundreds of rounds within the span of a few hours, shattered desperate enemy counter-attacks in the hilly region outside Cassino today and laid down a curtain of fire for infantrymen advancing slowly through the ruins of that mountain village.

Nazis Repulsed

Twice the frantic Nazis hurled themselves against French positions in the vicinity of strategic Mount Castellone, three miles northwest of Cassino itself but each time they were forced to retreat, their ranks depleted by the furious British and American barrage. A third assault against the nearby sector held by Tommies and Doughboys also was broken up.

Nazi planes strafed the Terelli road between hill 700 and Cassino as the blazing battle raged to a climax and at least one hedge-hopping craft was shot down by anti-aircraft guns. Enemy artillery batteries concentrated their fire on three Allied-held sectors northeast of Cassino in retaliation for the devastating barrages which smashed their counter-blows. Portella, Vallaretto and San Michele bore the brunt of the enemy fire.

Furious Cassino Fighting

Furious no-quarter fighting raged unabated within the ruins of Cassino. One enemy tank was knocked out and another was burning.

Stimson Says

Rabaul Stand

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Secretary of War Stimson said today that Japanese forces are retreating on New Britain Island to make a stand at their bomb-battered base of Rabaul.

At the same time, the secretary at his weekly news conference said that the recent American invasion of Emirau Island had forged "another link of steel around Japanese forces in the Bismarck sea area."

"The largest concentration of Japanese forces in that area has been on New Britain Island," Stimson said. "Even there, however, they have been yielding to Allied pressure. Enemy troops are being pulled out to concentrate at Rabaul for the defense of that battered port."

In the far eastern war zone Stimson said that Japanese troops have offered an invasion threat in the Imperial area of India but he added that enemy forces in Burma are "faced with trouble" because of the recent Allied aerial landing behind the Nipponese lines.

During the past week, Stimson said, Allied forces in the Southwest Pacific have punished Japanese shipping heavily, sinking 17 vessels and damaging seven others. In addition, (Continued On Page Two)

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEAD-
QUARTERS, New Guinea, March 23.—American airmen were credited officially today with sinking three more Japanese vessels, including a destroyer and two cargo ships, in assaults delivered while marine units tightened their grip on two key stepping-stones to Truk.

Far-ranging aerial patrols accounted for the enemy destroyer and the two merchantmen, one of 1,000 tons and another of 1,500 tons, during flights off Aitape in northern New Guinea.

Direct hits ripped the Jap vessels from end to end, General Douglas MacArthur announced.

On the ground, marine corps veterans of Guadalcanal and New Georgia consolidated their positions on Emirau and Elomomuso islands in the St. Mathias group, within 580 miles of the huge Japanese naval base of Truk.

Many German Fighters Battle Air Invasion

A FORTRESS STATION in Britain, March 23.—(INS)—Fortresses of the U. S. Eighth Army today fought German fighters in a battle which already have crossed the border into India in a thrust apparently aimed at hamstringing other Anglo-American offensives to the south.

A late communiqué from Lord Louis Mountbatten, supreme commander of all Allied forces in this theater, reported tersely that "operations against the Japanese who crossed the Chindwin river are continuing."

The official statement thus con-

TWO-WAY ATTACK MAY BE IN PROGRESS

BULLETIN
(International News Service)

LONDON, March 23.—A multi-pronged assault by mighty squadrons of U. S. Fortresses and Liberators was carried out in daylight today against Nazi aircraft centers in northwestern Germany and the Reich also was believed to have been raided by Mediterranean-based bombers.

Indications that American heavy bombers from Britain and Italy blasted the Reich in a two-way assault came from the German radio. Flights by strong bomber formations over both northwestern and southwestern Germany were reported by the Nazi transmitters.

By CHARLES A. SMITH (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, March 23.—Tremendous new daylight blows against wide areas of Nazi Germany were believed delivered by American raiders today on the heels of a mighty RAF night assault in which more than 1,000 bombers were thrown against Frankfurt and subsidiary targets in the Reich.

Berlin also was raided lightly during the night.

For several hours this morning the German home radio chain chattered nervously of the appearance of "strong enemy formations" over northwestern, western and southwestern Germany.

Huge Raid Reported

Simultaneously, coastal observers reported that just one of the big squadrons apparently thrown against the Reich took 45 minutes to roar over their town—the same length of time it took last night's RAF formations to pass by.

The British air ministry, issuing its second communiqué in recent days telling of the use of such a vast night-flying force against the Reich, announced that according to (Continued On Page Eight)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., March 23.—Captain Edwards Rickenbacker, famous American aviator and World War I ace, is one of four men selected to receive honorary degrees at Westminster College's 90th commencement exercises here May 20, according to an announcement by Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, president.

Captain Rickenbacker will receive the degree doctor of science. Other recipients of degrees are: Eric Clark, executive secretary, Metropolitan Opera Company, New York City; doctor of laws; J. Gilbert Quick, University of Pittsburgh registrar, doctor of pedagogy; and Rev. Edward A. Daum, Westminster graduate and assistant pastor, Sixth United Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, doctor of divinity.

Captain Rickenbacker told Dr. Galbreath in New York City last week that he will plan to be present at ceremonies in New Wilmington next May to receive his degree unless he is out of the country at the time.

Names of those to receive honorary degrees at Westminster were chosen at the March meeting of the college's board of trustees.

One victory gardener of a number of seasons' experience has been so impressed by the argument against plowing advanced in "Flowman's Folly" that he is going to make his garden this year on unplowed land and give the method a test, PA News is told.

New Wilmington Gives 439 Pints To Red Cross Unit

Cadets' Going Cuts Quota Short; Amish People Make Blood Donations

NEW WILMINGTON, March 23.—On Wednesday evening the Red Cross Blood Donor unit ended a three-day stay here. On Monday, because the unit was late arriving from Pittsburgh due to the icy condition of the roads, a full day's schedule was impossible.

On Monday, 108 pints of blood were obtained; on Tuesday, 160 pints; and Wednesday, 171 pints; making a total of 439 pints for the three days. The original quota was for 525 pints.

One reason given for obtaining less than the quota was that army cadets had been counted on to make contributions and they had left. Chairman J. E. Thompson today expressed himself as satisfied that the community and the people working on the committee did a good job.

On this visit of the unit for the first time a number of Amish people contributed blood after obtaining the consent of the bishops of the Amish church. It is anticipated that more of the Amish people will contribute the next time a unit comes.

Women of the churches had charge of the canteen with Mrs. Earl Mercer as general canteen chairman and Mrs. Arthur Minner as assistant chairman. Women of the United Presbyterian church worked on Monday, women of the Methodist church on Tuesday, and women of the Presbyterian church on Wednesday.

Among the donors a number of Westminster students and members of the faculty as well as residents contributed to the blood bank.

This was the second time a mobile unit of the Red Cross Blood Donor Service has visited New Wilmington. First visit was one last July.

STABLE WORLD PEACE DEPENDS ON RUSSIA

and heavy casualties. Then will come the question of organizing peace on a permanent basis.

Future Peace Involved
The United States has no interests in Europe or the Near East worth a war, Britain and Russia, on the other hand, have tremendous interests and historic policies in both these areas. On harmonizing these policies after the defeat of Germany, will depend the possibility of future peace in our time.

The task of harmonizing British interests to a practical program of peace in Europe should not be difficult. Britain has never desired a foot of European territory, probably desires it now less than ever.

In the Mediterranean and the Near East England's most ardent desire is the preservation of the status quo. Britain has long been losing ground in relation to other great world powers in the struggle for military and industrial might. Her birth rate is decreasing and the British empire is no longer animated by an urge to expand.

Russia Greatest Threat
Greatest threat to a world internationally organized for peace and justice, so ardently desired by the American public, is lusty young Russia. Their threat to a stable world lies in the biological fact that they are at the height of one of the greatest periods of expansion by a nation or race ever chronicled in the world's history.

Only yesterday in history, the Russian nation consisted of the tiny principality of Moscow, about the size of the state of Vermont. Now it covers a sixth of the globe's area and its birthrate is still the highest in Europe, driving it to constant expansion. Can the explosive energies and the habits of conquest of this mighty forward-marching nation be curbed within the bounds of a stable peace? On the answer to that question depends the course of history in our times.

ed out in a gutted building adjoining a large church, boosting to five the total number of armored craft blasted in the battle there.

Tired but determined New Zealanders pressed an assault along the north-south axis of the west side of the town toward the slopes of Mount Cassino where other Allied units hold several key positions. Nearby, still other New Zealanders drove doggedly at snail's pace against terrific Nazi opposition in a bid to open direct communication with Indian troops isolated on an adjoining hilltop.

Planes Supply Forces
Allied spokesmen revealed that 30 German prisoners were taken yesterday morning when a heavy enemy counter-attack northeast of Cassino was repelled. They also announced that all Nazi attempts to knock out Allied bridges across the Rapido river had failed and disclosed that Allied planes still are supplying forces where roadways have been bombed to a state of uselessness.

Along the Anzio beachhead, the Germans concentrated their artillery fire on the Padiellente area in the center of the American line. Allied patrol activity increased in that region, while an attempt by seven enemy planes to attack shipping in the harbor was defeated without damage to the vessels.

Speaking technically, the United States is a state composed of states.

Dniester river, plunged deeper into Rumania. Its tank-paced infantry columns overran more than 15 large towns, including Nisnista, which is an important railroad intersection halfway across Bessarabia.

South of Zimierinka, Russian troops stormed into Murovanyev-Kurlovitsy, government center of Vinnitsa province.

In another nearby sector, some 700 Germans were slain when mortar and machine-gun fire pinned down enemy detachments while Soviet tank forces swept around to the rear and into the Nazi positions.

More than 1,000 other Germans died when the Russians "encircled and liquidated" Nazi reserves near Podzameche, in Poland.

London, March 23.—(INS)—Russian forces which seized the rail junction of Pervomaisk, on the Southern Bug river in the Ukraine, have forced a crossing of the Bug at that point to the west bank of the waterway, a Moscow dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company said today.

Exchange quoted the Soviet army newspaper Red Star.

sian embassy in Sofia and came only a few hours after the German-dominated inauguration of a Quisling administration in Hungary.

Already, according to neutral sources, the German seizure of Hungary has resulted in a potentially dangerous deflection of that country's diplomatic corps, with its representative in Stockholm the first to refuse to serve the Budapest Quislings.

Invade Bulgaria
A late dispatch from Madrid to the London Daily Mail reported that the German high command has thrown veteran army and navy and supporting divisions into key areas of Bulgaria.

By striking with lightning speed against the country's disorganized communications, the Nazis apparently were able to wrest control of the major phone and rail points and now are driving for the last remaining communications facilities.

The Mail correspondent reported that the German troops dashed to the Soviet embassy in Sofia, occupied the building and "detained" officials.

Bulgaria, although at war with Britain and the United States, is not at war with Russia, and in recent days its leaders have made a series of speeches designed to assure the Soviet Union of their friendship for that country. For that reason, observers eagerly awaited official Soviet reaction to the reported occupation of the embassy.

While the Bulgarian blitz was under way, the Nazis moved rapidly to assure full control of occupied Hungary by installing a puppet regime headed by Field Marshal Doene Sztojay, formerly minister to Berlin. Contradictory reports as to the fate of Admiral Horthy meanwhile flowed into London. Various quarters reported that he was under Nazi guard in Berlin; others that he was in Budapest and co-operating with the German officials there.

(An NBC correspondent in Switzerland reported that Horthy is imprisoned in Koensberg, from which French Gen. Henri Honore Giraud escaped. Horthy was said to be "a neighbor" of former French Premier Edouard Daladier.)

pushed to within 28 miles of Imphal, capital of the state of Manipur and apparently the immediate objective of the Japanese drive. No confirmation was given these reports, however.

Observers declared that the Japanese may pose a serious threat to the Allies' Assam bases and the railroad network, as well as hindering the British operations and those under the direction of Lieut. Gen. Jos. W. Stilwell.

While the Japanese offensive did not come as a surprise, the strength, audacity, and rapidity of the enemy moves caused "some concern" and led to the Allied withdrawal. The loss of Imphal, it was pointed out, would come as a serious military blow inasmuch as the city serves as a strategic supply base and headquarters for troops operating along the central sector of the front.

Meanwhile, enemy resistance stiffened along the entire coastal plain, south of Maungdaw and in the western foothills of the Mayu range. East of the Mayu range, six Japanese attacks were beaten back.

PENNA. POWER COMPANY GETS NOTABLE AWARD

Lt. Col. William E. Pierce, executive officer of the third defense region covering Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia; the pennant by John G. Watson, regional director of the State Council of Defense, and the buttons to employees were awarded by Dr. C. C. Green, county chairman of the OCD.

Awards Accepted
For the company, President Walter E. Sammis of New York City accepted the award certificate. The pennant was accepted for the company and employees by Thomas L. Paden. Representing their departments the following men were presented with buttons by Dr. Green: Raymond Atkinson for the auxiliary military police, L. C. Hughes for property protection, G. T. Roberts for first aid, Helen Harst for canteen service, K. A. Cotton for maintenance and rehabilitation, W. J. Fox for fire fighters.

Before the service of the dinner the crowd sang "America" directed by Lawrence Hemmingsway and the invocation was given by Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of First Christian church. Mr. Hemmingsway directed pen singing during the dinner with E. E. Branstetter and his orchestra furnishing the music.

Round Presides
At the conclusion of the dinner, L. B. Round, vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania Power company, took over as toastmaster. Briefly he welcomed the guests, expressed his appreciation of the tribute to be paid to the management and men for civilian defense measures within the company, and then introduced the state director of the OCD, Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison.

Dr. Hutchison opened with greetings from Governor Edward Martin. He congratulated the Pennsylvania Power personnel for their outstanding work in civilian defense measures and said that Lawrence county as a whole had stood out as one of the leading counties in OCD work.

"War Not Won Yet"
"This war is not won yet," said Dr. Hutchison. "True, the threat of bombing to our cities is not so grave as it once was, but there is still a job to do in civilian defense. Under our democracy everyone is free to quit if he pleases, free to rid himself of his responsibilities as a citizen, to be a slacker if he wishes but this is a war against two forms of oppression, one the form that places the state above the individual, the other the one for which we are fighting that places the rights of individuals above the state. As long as there is an American boy offering his life on the battlefield, we as civilians dare not shrink our responsibilities."

Regional Executive Director Lt. Col. William E. Pierce was next introduced. Said he, "I have been trouble shooting all over Pennsylvania for the Office of Civilian Defense and I have found the work of OCD in Lawrence county to be consistently high. Much of the credit for that work is due to the original executive director, Lt. Col. Fulton Jackson, now overseas on active duty, and since his call to active duty, to Louis B. Round, your present executive director."

Only 14 Awarded
"The National Service Award of the Office of Civilian Defense is one to be coveted. There have been but 14 of them awarded in the nation before this and there are but 11 more on the approved list now. Protective measures in a plant usually indicate the rate of production by the plant for the two seem to go together. The Pennsylvania Power company has done a stellar job in the defense measures and I am pleased to be able to present this award to you."

For the company President Walter E. Sammis accepted the award and promised that the same wholehearted cooperation of management and employees which had made this possible would continue until the necessity for defense measures had ceased.

Presents Pennant
John G. Watson, regional director for the OCD, then presented the pennant which may be flown below the national colors at the plant and Thomas L. Paden accepted. Dr. C. C. Green, county chairman of OCD, then made the presentation of buttons to the employees named and later each employee of the company was presented with a button. Rev. Fr. F. M. McCarter, pastor of St. Mary's church, delivered the benediction and the crowd closed the program with "God Bless America". Dancing followed.

The National Service Award was given the Pennsylvania Power company for "extraordinary achievement in establishing and maintaining superior security and protection measures against enemy air raids, fire, sabotage and avoidable accidents."

The dinner meeting was a colorful one and an enthusiastic one. It was a public recognition by government agencies of a job well done by a group of men and women that has distinguished itself in civic responsibilities.

Famous Diamonds
The Diamond That Has Shared In the Course of World Events

NASSAK DIAMOND
Like the Orloff, this diamond originated in India and was a favorite offering to the goddess Siva, in a temple near Bombay. When the English took over that part of India, this stone passed into the hands of the Marquis of Hastings, leader of the army. A few years later it was purchased by the Marquis of Westminster, and mounted in the hilt of his sword. Recently it was acquired by Mouhoush, the celebrated Parisian jewelry firm where it has been on exhibition. The Nassak is a diamond of perfect brilliancy weighing 78 carats.

DAY OF RECKONING

ALLIED DIPLOMATS are giving more and more thought to the situation which will arise in Germany when the war ends. Consensus of opinion is that when judgment day comes for Hitler and other Nazi leaders, conditions in Germany will beggar description.

There is no doubt that armistice terms will call for military occupation. It is doubtful if the most strict military control will be able to obviate many of the developments which are in the cards to occur when vengeance begins to exact its toll.

Hitler and his henchmen will be dealt with summarily, some by their own people, others by those whom they have outraged and oppressed. Russia has gone to great pains to keep an accurate list of Germans guilty of atrocities in that country. These will be hunted down to the last man. Most of the principal cities of Germany will have been destroyed. Millions will be without food and shelter.

War prisoners and impressed laborers will be hurrying to their native lands. Travel conditions will be snarled indefinitely. But, most important, there will be no repetition of Allied weakness which followed the last war. Then only four of the guilty Germans were tried. Three were given light penalties. The kaiser lived out his years in luxury in Holland.

End of the war this time will be the end for everything for which German militarism has stood for decades.

BRITISH ARSENAL

Over in Britain American troops say jokingly that England has sunk into the sea six inches since they began arriving and that if it were not for the barrage balloons holding it up, the island would sink out of sight.

This is facetious comment on the fact that the British Isles have become the greatest arsenal in the world. When an infantryman wades ashore to establish a beachhead in Europe, eight tons of assorted supplies will go with him and at least 50 pounds more will follow him each day. These supplies are now accumulating in England mountain high. In totals the quantities run into millions of tons and the cost into billions of dollars.

Casual observers report encountering in England long strings of tanks, trucks and field guns. But the bulk of the arsenal is, of course, hidden from view. British farm yards, railroad sidings and yards are weighted down with weapons and supplies. Hundreds of buildings have been taken over for warehouses. Huge assembly depots are putting together the crated vehicles that are to become combat weapons.

The British are crowded for room these days, but they realize it is in a good cause. For presently men and weapons will plunge across the Channel to crowd Hitler for room until he is crowded out altogether.

HELPFUL WEATHER

Spring officially closes a winter season which was extremely mild except for a belated visitation by wintry elements in the Rocky Mountain region and a few adjacent points. To individuals this meant a minimum of discomfort from cold and storm. To the nation there is cause for greater gratification.

The mild winter has been a contribution to the war effort which has been most helpful. With America's transportation system burdened beyond normal capacity an extremely cold winter, with heavy snows, would have been a handicap from which bus and rail lines might have been months recovering.

Recently much gratification was expressed over the arrival in England of the largest convoy of men and materials since the beginning of the war. Few gave thought to the immense job of gathering these streams of war on an eastern seacoast. War machines came from all parts of the nation, as did the men comprising the armed forces. All were brought by rail. Heavy snows and extreme cold could have hampered the movement and seriously delayed sailing of the convoy.

Seriously undermanned, with insufficient motive power, often forced to use inferior fuel, American railways have made a noble effort to carry on during recent months. Their job has been tough at best. No doubt their executives would join in a move to give the weather man an "E" award for splendid cooperation.

AIR WAR—1918

Impressed as the home front unquestionably is with the massive exploits of its courageous young airmen in this war, it is appropriate to turn now and then to the deeds of aviation's pioneers in the last war. The names of Quentin Roosevelt, Hobey Baker, Eddie Rickenbacker come quickly to mind, and there are in almost every community fliers whose luck was "in" and so survived World War I.

Those fliers of an early day not only had to surmount enemy opposition, they had as well to risk the uncertainties of their planes, which were not inappropriately named "flying coffins." Newspaper files of 1918 yield these exhibits for late March 26 years ago. Abbreviated, the dispatches appear below:

"LONDON, March 25 (1918)—In intense aerial fighting in France and Belgium 28 German airplanes were accounted for, says the official statement on aviation operations last night. Twelve British machines are reported missing.

"Including the above figures, 54 German planes were accounted for in two days."

"Nine tons of bombs were dropped Monday on enemy rest billets and ammunition dumps and also on the Busigny Railway Station and two airbases."

"Aerial fighting was exceedingly intense, encounters occurring between large formations. Six hundred bombs were dropped during the night on two airbases."

"WITH THE ARMIES IN FRANCE, March 25, 1918—The air war on the West Front is record-breaking. Present records here are that 167 enemy aeroplanes have been downed so far this month in daylight flying, including more than twenty St. Patrick's Day. Of these, 102 were reduced to splinters."

Even in the light of such raids as Berlin, Cassino, Regensburg, Stuttgart, Hamburg and Frankfurt have experienced, the above dispatches, with their stories of bomb loads and losses, testify to the hazards and intensity of aerial combat in its early stages. And it detracts nothing from the valor of modern pilots to note that these early raids—for that is what they were—were made with little benefit of reconnaissance, radio communication, meteorology and other scientific aids.

Washington Calling

Must Speak Out

MADISON, Wis., March 23.—Long after the present primary campaign is over, the speech that Wendell Willkie made here will be remembered. It may well become one of the vital documents in our political history.

In a moment of bitterness and dissension of cynicism and indifference, Willkie has with simple clarity defined the dilemma of the Republican party. And more than that, he has defined the political crisis of our time.

If this sounds solemn, I mean it to sound solemn. No matter what his past mistakes, his blunders, his inconsistencies, regardless of all political mud-slinging, I believe his history will record that he stood up and spoke the plain truth as no one else had spoken it.

Striking Parallels

As Willkie said, there are striking parallels with that era of 90 years ago when a little group of determined men met in Ripon to express their profound convictions through the medium of a new political party. One party, the Whig party, was dying in bankruptcy; another the Republican, was about to be born.

What may be at stake here in this delegate election is more than the future of Wendell Willkie, the individual. It may be a decisive turning point for the G.O.P. If Willkie is defeated, there will be strenuous efforts to make it seem that this is a repudiation of the things he stands for. The international convention, the necessary minimum of government regulation to make a free enterprise system free. The successful Republican nominee—and it will not be Willkie if he loses the April 4 primary in Wisconsin—would be under constant pressure to pull back from any vital commitments.

The theme of Willkie's Ripon talk was that a political party, to survive, must stand up and speak out on the big questions of the day. Dodging, hedging, evasion will end in bankruptcy.

"A political party," said Willkie, "can never stand still. . . . Those leaders of a party who insist on applying old formulas to present problems merely because those formulas worked in the past are damaging the party and will eventually destroy it. For they are standing still, whereas the world around them moves."

Aimed At Silence

In this, of course, was practical politics. It was aimed at Governor Dewey for his silence, his failure to declare himself on the presidential race. The contest here is essentially between Dewey and Willkie with possibility that some scattering delegates may go to General MacArthur and Governor Stassen, both of whom are on duty in the Pacific. But it was politics on a high level.

Of two rebellions within the Republican party Willkie spoke with implied approval. One was that of the "Liberal Republicans" who rose in protest against the corruption of the Grant Administration in 1872. The other was the Bull Moose revolt of Teddy Roosevelt.

Willkie may have been hinting that it was time to start another rebellion within the G.O.P. There have been intimations that he would start a third party. It is known that he investigated thoroughly the machinery for getting a third party ticket on the ballot.

But this year there isn't a chance. State laws have been deliberately drafted to make any third party attempt all but impossible. Even the Socialists, who are veterans at the third party game, will have difficulty this fall getting on the ballots of states with enough electoral votes to add up to a majority.

That is why it is all the more important for the two parties to give vigorous expression to the issues that touch the lives of every one of us. Otherwise we end in a blind alley of cynicism and frustration and the marker pointing in that direction says fascism.

I don't know whether Willkie will put his party in the nomination, this cautious trimmer out to get the votes of every possible group by saying as little as possible. I don't think he knows. At this point it isn't important.

It is important that he has spoken with simple forthrightness of the problem of our day. Read that Ripon speech. Our grandchildren may be reading it in history books 50 years from now.

FONTANELLE

There is a soft spot on the top of a baby's head. It is about the size of a silver dollar.

The name is larger than the spot. It is called fontanelle. Some mothers are very much concerned about this soft place. They are afraid to touch it. They worry for fear it may be injured.

There is another soft spot in the back of the head too, most mothers never know about it.

The soft spot closes up sometime in the second year. The bones gradually grow together and the soft spot is gone.

There is no need to worry about the fontanelle. There is no danger washing it or brushing it. Most mothers seem to forget about it. That is perhaps the best way to do.

Slang words and expressions have been worming their way into the American language in such volume that children born in this age speak a language that sounds almost foreign to their grandparents, unless the oldsters have been keeping themselves up-to-date in conversational English. But there are still a good many folk who deplore the increasing use of slang and who will not hesitate to chide those in their families, and especially the children, who have succumbed to that evil. Bobby's granny was one of those who preferred the unadorned language and when she heard Bobby using two of the latest slang words to express his opinion of two birthday parties which he had attended, she deemed it her duty to caution him against their further use. "Bobby," she said sternly, "there are two words that I shall ask you not to use—one is swell and the other is lousy." Bobby was all attention and expectant. "Okay, granny," he said, "what are the two words?"

WHO SUGGESTS SECOND DATE?

"When I have a first date with a man whom I am anxious to see again, how can I arrange our next date? If he does not suggest it, how can I tactfully let him know I enjoyed myself and would like a repetition of the evening?"—A. M.

Answer: Your "good night" technique is important. Be neither indifferent nor aggressive. You may feel that you simply can't go on if he doesn't suggest another date with you, but don't let him know how you feel. Don't stand there with your heart on your sleeve begging for a favor. This is the time to drag out your sense of humor. Levity has saved many a hopeless situation. Men prefer women who are amusing and gay. They really become bored with woe-filled Winnies.

By all means, do not try to coerce him into making a date at this time when he shows little inclination in that direction. Perhaps he is tired and thinks he wants to stay home and rest for a few days. The idea of making such plans might not appeal to him at that time. Give him time to get his second wind. Perhaps he'll call you in a night or two. Let him know cautiously that you would be receptive to the idea by some such casual remark as:

"I've had a wonderful time. Don't forget to call me soon," or "Good-bye. I hope you had as good a time as I've had," or "see you soon." Linger a while to see what his reply is, but never suggest a date. Let him, with a little help from you, take the initiative.

Question: Please advise me the correct way to monogram linens. There has been some argument as to whether the husband's or the wife's initials should be used.—E. J.

Answer: All linens recommended before marriage should bear the bride's initials. All those that are done after marriage should have the husband's initials on them.

Great Game Of Politics

"Double Talk"

WASHINGTON, March 23. UNHAPPILY, politics in this country is such that complete candor upon the part of candidates for even the highest office is practically impossible. Chiefly, this is because of the numerous racial, religious, vocational, sectional and other social-interest groups which compose so large a part of the electorate.

EVEN THOSE who seem the frankest are never wholly so. For example, there is Mr. Willkie, who is talking much more than all other aspirants for the Presidency and has now begun to call on Governor Dewey to come out and "debate" the issues. But he, himself, if silent as to how he would raise the greatly increased tax revenue he advocates and is very mute, indeed, upon such vital subjects as the national service act, opposed by union labor and the "Little Steel" formula, with which it seeks to alter administration stabilization policy. Nor so far as can be recalled, has he been plain-spoken on the question of how he would end strikes in defense plants during the war.

THIS IS not said in criticism of Mr. Willkie. The charge of lack of candor, applied, perhaps, in greater degree to other aspirants in the two parties, not only for the Presidency but for other offices too. The truth is that the nature, variety and prejudices of the great mass of American voters inevitably tend to make hypocrites of the most honest of candidates. Privately, no one in politics denies this. It is only in public that the pretense of unadulterated sincerity is maintained. This is, of course, an unpalatable statement. It will be vigorously denied by the breast beaters in both parties. But it is none the less true.

CONSIDER the demonstration which Vice-President Henry Wallace has so recently given. Certainly, Mr. Wallace is one of the most honest men in politics. However foggy and unsound his views, he is generally conceded to be more than averagely high-minded. Yes, last week he performed in a way extremely typical of the ordinary politician seeking to hold on to his job. In an unprecedented attempt to reach the widest possible audience, he personally sent cards to all radio stations asking if they wanted free records of the speech he was to deliver to the American Business Congress in New York last Friday. About 570 of the 600 stations accepted. Not all of these used these records but many did.

UPON ANALYSIS, however, it appeared that there were striking differences between the records and (Continued on Next Page)

The World and the Mud Puddles

F. D. R. AND THE CONGRESS

Had President Roosevelt merely vetoed the tax bill and sent it back to Congress with a temperately worded explanation of his failure to agree with its provisions, the situation in national legislative halls would be far different from the open rebellion which developed.

But Mr. Roosevelt was not content with a veto and calm statement of his reason for so doing. He had to make a campaign speech. He brought a branch of the government that is of equal importance to that which he heads. He employed language which his own party leaders interpreted as being an ultimatum to "accept my dictation." This, they refused to do.

The resignation of Senator Alben Barkley as majority was considerably more than passing significance. It meant that the President's chief contact with the upper branch of the national legislature has been broken. And the corresponding action taken by Chairman Donahue of the powerful Ways and Means Committee in the House meant that a similar break in relations with that body has occurred.

The Parent Problem

MEANING OF "NO" TAUGHT GRADUALLY

Of a girl two years old, the mother writes: "The child is quick enough to mind at times and at other times seems to meddle for attention or just amusement. She seems to try to see how far she can go sometimes. When I mentioned the problem to a friend, she suggested I was trying to teach No in respect to too many things."

This mother raised a question that has always puzzled me. You advocate teaching "No" for one thing at a time. I can't understand how it can be done. Do you let the child play with anything and everything just because you are teaching him not to touch the stove this week? I could see how it might be possible if all untouchables could be removed until their turns came, but few households have facilities for that method. Personally, I have never favored hiding things at sacrifice of reasonable convenience, and it certainly doesn't teach a child any self-control to remove completely all temptations. In my self-addressed envelope stamped with three cents, please send me your graded list of "no's."

Pageantry Of British Ceremony Awesome
Decoration Of Heroes Solemn Occasion
Great Qualities Hidden In Modest Men

By HELEN ESSARY

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 23.—For the first time since the shock of Pearl Harbor I felt personally close to the war. The bitter struggle, its hopes and horrors became a reality to me in the drawing room of the British embassy I saw and heard the stuff that Allied heroes are made of.

The room itself was a million miles away from the fighting and the dying. Gold forsythia branches in vases in the tall, brocade-lined windows, caught the encouraging sunshine. Guests sat in attentive rows facing Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, who was standing. The spring hats of pretty ladies and the gold braid of uniformed men were reflected in the black mirrors paneling the walls.

At right angles to the guests sat six or eight very young men in navy blue and khaki and several old men and women strangers to Washington. No far from the ambassador a tall fellow was holding a small red velvet cushion bound in gold braid and tassels. The sort of cushion popular in Hollywood and in other countries where pageantry quite properly pleases the people.

Ambassador Speaks

The ambassador was speaking to the slim U. S. officer who stood before him.

"On behalf of His Gracious Majesty King George VI," he was saying, "I have the honor to confer the Distinguished Flying Cross for outstanding achievement in combat on Lieut. Col. Ernest C. Young, U. S. A. F. group commander, executive officer and pilot of P-38 type aircraft in the North Africa theater of operations. Lieutenant Colonel Young has shown outstanding ability in all phases of combat flying and tactics. . . . led his group of B-25 type bombers attacking Pratica Di Mare. . . . drove off five enemy bombers in repeated and aggressive attacks. . . . made a record in number of enemy aircraft shot down and military installations destroyed and damaged." So the record ran.

The cushion-bearer now walked slowly toward the ambassador and the aviator. On the cushion was a heavy silver cross tied with a square or striped ribbon. The ambassador fastened the cross by its ribbon on the shoulder of the aviator. The aviator bowed a little and moved reverently back to his place among his comrades in honor.

Down the proud list the ambassador read the story of valor and its reward. Telling in adequate words of violent hours of boldness and resolution.

Now it was an aviation radioman, first class, United States Navy, Lionel Pelletier of Fall River, Mass., who was about to be decorated. A member of a crew of a United States Navy aircraft which gallantly attempted to rescue the crew of a Royal Air Force Fortress which had come down in the sea. After drifting six days in a dinghy this aviator was rescued.

Radioman Pelletier had fought the enemy the sea and the wind. But when he came back to his chair with the new Distinguished Flying Medal on his blue blouse he was so nervous he could hardly bend his knees to sit down.

Mother Is Honored

"The Distinguished Flying Cross is conferred on Flight Lieut. Arthur G. Donahue (deceased). Lord Halifax's voice was saying: "The decoration will be awarded by his mother, Mrs. Frank Donahue. The mother of the hero went faithfully forward. But she stood straight and proud to receive the cross her son had won."

A lad who looked as if he were too young to shave sauntered out next to receive the Distinguished Flying Cross for having completed 103 fighter sorties, performance of exemplary duty and courage and skill in leadership. A short, stocky lad had "inspired his crew by cool and efficient methods and set a magnificent example of courage and devotion to duty." And so ran the condensed eulogies of these brave men, defenders of our faith.

Who were these men before the war grabbed them? Later we had tea and things from the best ambassadorial china and silver. I had a chance to talk to the wearers of the shiny new medals and to the bereft little mother. One of the heroes had been a furniture salesman in a store in a small midwest town. Another had been a "settled" man when he decided one day to volunteer. Another had helped out in a soda fountain, "making a little extra" he'd be likely to need in college. Great qualities had been hidden behind monotonous "tasks and young inexperience. Yet here these Americans stood transformed. Symbols of youth and bravery and valor. An inspiration and a heartbreak to us who stay at home and complain or forget.

Bible Thought

The vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it shall speak, and not lie, though it tarry a while; because it will surely come, it will not tarry.—Hab 2:3.

Hints On Etiquette

If you have met a man at a party and meet again shortly, and the man says, "I believe I had the pleasure of meeting Miss C. last week," you should answer, "How do you do, Mr. D. I am glad to see you again."

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERIC BRANDLES

"Goldie" is retiring. After 40 years as a mail carrier David Goldberg of Brooklyn is going to be pensioned off and live a life of ease and leisure.

For 40 years he has been delivering the mail to banks and brokerages houses in Wall street. He has handled millions of dollars worth of stocks and bonds. He has met hundreds of America's richest men. They all call him "Goldie" and they all like him.

Goldie has never aspired to wealth. Those stocks and bonds never tempted him. He worked his regular hours, had a smile for everybody, and when the job was done each day, he went home to Brooklyn to his family, his supper, his newspaper and his radio.

Will Not Loaf

He doesn't think he'll just loaf. He wants to do something for the war effort. He'll keep busy all right. At sixty, he is hale and hearty, and he still takes long walks on his bicycle down the parkway.

I wonder who is the greater success, the fellows to whom he delivered the stocks and bonds, or Goldie, the mail carrier.

Down in Wall street many a night you can see the lights burning at ten and eleven. You see worried-looking fellows in expensive clothes getting into their limousines and going to their ornate homes.

They take their business home with them and spend many a sleepless night worrying where the next million is coming from.

Money is heavy food, you know too much of it is hard to digest. A famous doctor told me that nervous breakdowns and stomach ulcers are almost unknown among the moderately well-to-do and the not-too-poor.

Success Secret

They are, what he called "business men's disease." Take your business home with you and it's bound to get the best of you eventually.

One of Goldie's "success secrets" is that when he left his bag in the post office at the end of the day, he left his worries in his bag.

You may not call Goldie a success. I do.

I call anybody a success who gets happiness and contentment out of life.

Many a "successful" man will tell you that when he finally achieved success it wasn't at all what he had imagined it to be.

A pretty good measure of success is how well you sleep at night. Copyright, 1944, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

New Castle Has Better Record Than Most Cities

War-time Delinquency Is Below
Average In New Castle
For Past Year

NEW CASTLE, March 23.—Although crime in general continues at a high rate throughout the country and juvenile delinquency, induced by the war, has grown to be a matter of national concern, New Castle shows itself to be more law-abiding in 1943 than most cities, according to the annual FBI report, just issued.

Comparative reports show that while the average crime rate for all cities over 25,000 inhabitants was 1,580 per 100,000 population, New Castle had a rate of only 840 per 100,000.

New Castle police handled a total of 415 crimes of all types during the year. Divided into six categories, they comprise 186 larcenies, 34 auto thefts, 86 burglaries, 6 assaults, 3 robberies and 9 murders.

The seriousness of the juvenile delinquency problem is more clearly seen, comments the FBI, in the increase in female arrests. Compared with 1941, arrests of girls under 21 have increased 130.4 percent. These figures indicate that the factors contributing to delinquency are still very powerful, and must be intensified by each community to intensify its efforts to combat the rising tide of juvenile crime. All of the constructive influences which an aroused community can provide are urgently needed to combat this menace to our internal strength," warns the FBI.

Use Of Paddle In School Room Gets Approval

HARRISBURG, March 23.—(INS)—The use of a paddle in a school room held judicial sanction today. Judge Robert E. Woodhouse fined William J. Wrighton, Edgemont, $50 and gave him a six-month suspended sentence yesterday for attacking a teacher, Haubertin, an Edgemont teacher. The teacher said he had added Wrighton's eight-year-old daughter.

"One of the big difficulties with handling juveniles is the attitude of their parents," said the court. "Children cannot be expected to believe in school discipline unless the parents have and teach respect for the authority of school teachers and officials."

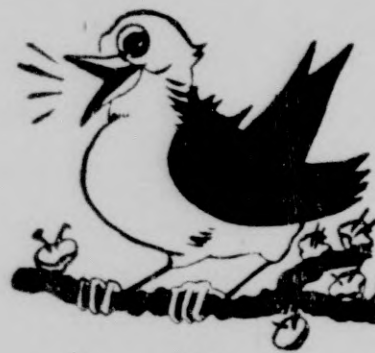

One match dropped carelessly in the pine needles of a national forest may do more property damage than hundreds of incendiary bombs dropped by a fleet of enemy planes.

enclosed bulletin you will see that I stress centering on one thing at a time in the first steps of the training. Your child is two and already should have learned to avoid automatically most known constant dangers and numerous things she could harm. Even now you would get best results by centering on just a few prohibitions making sure she never could have them without instant physical pain. In the meanwhile she should have many things she can enjoy with approval. You are wise in planning to have more good play-things for her.

Beginning with your next baby, as soon as he can toddle, put away at first a few of the most alluring things he should not have and you do not need, and bring them back gradually as he has learned to avoid permanently first one then another of the forbidden things and places to which he is still exposed. Merely intercept him and keep him away from other things in the meanwhile when he is out of his play pen. Don't even command No concerning them but use it in a soft tone as mere information—until such time as No is so completely established it can without further pain deter him from numerous other things he should not have.

Meaning of No. No in a tone of command should always carry pain or possible pain sufficient to deter the child. Therefore this word should be used with great selectiveness and discretion. Too often or carelessly used, it unduly annoys or hampers the youngsters and becomes a useless irritant and encourages disobedience. It certainly should not take a week, when done well, to train a tot to avoid the gas jet. When this is done well it should take still less time to train him to avoid another object, with the time and frequency of pain growing less and less with each new item of permanent forbidding so that No alone can carry over to most other things to be forbidden. It can be done. A good many skillful and wise mothers are doing it.

Of course, these mothers exercise great control, help the child find satisfaction in doing many other things, and are generous with affection to the child when he is "good." Furthermore, they win his cooperation.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My son in the first grade copies pictures just the opposite of the way they are printed; letters and words likewise.

A. Very patiently guide him as he prints, writes or draws, to move in the right direction, urging him not to do these things without your supervision. If you have a typewriter, have him copy words on it, since it always moves in the right direction.

Q. What do you consider your most useful bulletin on home-school relations?

A. "Parents Can Help The Child Get On Well At School," to be had for postage by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

gress and apparently has become so enamored with his own power that he feels that he now is in a position to take over the legislative duties of the government. He doubtless feels that he can take his case before the people in a fireside chat and so belittle the legislative branch of the government that it henceforth will be powerless to interfere with his self-contained plans. He has, to considerable extent, so maneuvered the Supreme Court.

While the situation may afford some of Mr. Roosevelt's opponents much comfort, the overall picture of national government which it presents is not pretty. Nevertheless, it is a warning of what may be expected, on a vastly greater scale, if his fourth term ambitions are realized. Mr. Roosevelt has made Congress the issue of his campaign. He has put it squarely up to the people that they either can elect him, in which case he will take it as a mandate to ignore, snub and ridicule Congress to his heart's content, or they can strengthen Congress and see their government returned to them.

Mr. Roosevelt has, from the beginning of his administration, openly sneered at the Congress of the United States. As long as it was surrendering one power and prerogative after another; as long as it was adding strength to his regime and trembling with fear at his very voice, he tolerated it. But he never has made an effort to get along with it. There never has been the slightest disposition on his part to compromise on any important issue. It is becoming worse, and now is time for Congress to end our headlong plunge into dictatorship, if it isn't too late already.

This tragic state of affairs would be bad enough in normal times, but it is dangerous in war time. But it perhaps is fortunate that we are seeing how instead of having it wait until his election to a fourth term, when he would have four whole years in which to wreak his vengeance upon those who dare disagree with his strange and mystifying whimsies.

EDITOR ACQUITTED

PITTSBURGH, March 23.—(INS)—The Pittsburgh "Press" and Edward T. Leech, editor, stood acquitted today of charges of libel brought by Leo Abernathy, a member of the State Labor Relations Board.

Abernathy was asking for damages for alleged libel based on an editorial published in the newspaper in March, last year, at the time the senate passed a bill amending the labor relations act to make union officials eligible for board membership.

the actual speech. To the businessmen Mr. Wallace's words were far less harsh than those later sent out on the records. For example, on the records he declared that "the present high concentration of investment banking in New York City is itself incompatible with free enterprise, for only large national corporations have access on reasonable terms to that market." The prepared speech to the businessmen did not include this sentence. Various other similar discrepancies were noted by those who compared the records with the speech.

IN BRIEF, Mr. Wallace was much more vehement and anti-business on the records than he was in his manuscript. In the records he made a stronger appeal for his special concern, the "common man." To his New York audience his remarks were considerably tempered and the accent was much less emphatic on the "common man." The contrast was marked all the way through, even in the introduction. Clearly, the modification had been made with a view of appealing to special groups other than the one before which the speech was made and which the records were supposed to reproduce exactly. They were so plainly "doctored" that various newspapers editorially referred to it as "double talk."

FROM THE detached viewpoint this would seem an indefensible thing to have done. It would seem the act of a trimming politician anxious to ingratiate himself with conflicting or at any rate, different groups, and unkindly with all. That so personally upright a man as Mr. Wallace could bring himself to do this kind of thing is a pretty savage commentary on the ethical standards of our public life. Undoubtedly, the two-faced character of the performance did not occur to Mr. Wallace. No one thinks that he would deliberately stoop to such deception in his personal life. Apparently the only way in which the "double talk" can be reconciled with Mr. Wallace's personal integrity is on the theory that deceit of this kind in politics is so much a matter of course that men who in private life would be revolted by it have no qualms at all about such incidents in their public life.

IT IS unfortunate for Mr. Wallace that the records and his manuscript could be compared so quickly and so publicly. It rather spoils the picture painted by his ardent friends as the great, fearless liberal who seems to compromise principle. And it rather encourages cynical comment upon his recent fervent remark following the Jewish war, "justice for the Jews in Palestine; that he hoped to see a V. A. (Jordan Valley Authority) Palestine which would cause the desert to bloom like the rose in the interest of the "common man." But one should not be too hard on Mr. Wallace for his "double talk." Men holding even higher office than the one he holds now have been guilty of the same thing—and will be again. Also it is true that while, perhaps, they will not be so publicly exposed none of the gentlemen who are now aspiring to either Presidency or Vice-Presidency has a record for undeviating consistency and complete candor in his public utterances. They may be able to laugh at poor Mr. Wallace for being caught so far off base, but not one is in position really to throw stones at him.

Joan Barry Will Be Called Today In Chaplin's Trial

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—(INS)—Red-headed Joan Barry, the government's star witness in the "white slave" trial of Charlie Chaplin, was expected to take the witness stand in federal court today and relate to a jury of seven women and five men her own version of a trip to New York which the prosecution charges was "for immoral purposes."

Mother of a five-month-old daughter she claims is Chaplin's, Miss Barry was expected to mount the witness stand in Judge J. P. F. O'Connor's court shortly after U. S. Attorney Charles H. Carr makes a brief opening statement.

Jerry Giesler, defense counsel for the blue-eyed, 34-year-old comedian, indicated he planned no opening statement unless Carr's remarks were of such nature that he feels they necessitate an answer.

Chaplin spent his first two days in court starting at jurors and reporters and "doodling" rather good sketches with a soft pencil clutched in his left hand.

The preliminaries of his trial were concluded late yesterday when Giesler and Carr expressed approval of the elderly jury—despite the fact each still held one unexercised prerogative challenge.

STRIKE HITS FURNACES
DUQUESNE, Pa., March 23.—(INS)—All six blast furnaces at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation's Duquesne works were shut down today by a strike of about 50 stockhouse employees in protest against suspension of three accused of refusing to work.

It was the second strike within a week at the plant, following a one-day walkout of two stripper craftsmen that cost about 7,000 tons of steel last Friday.

Today's walkout immediately began to choke off war-bound steel in the open hearth furnaces. A company spokesman indicated the three suspended men refused to work because a grievance had not been settled to their satisfaction.

Jail Sentence

For Selling Of Gas Coupons

SCRANTON, Pa., March 23.—(INS)—George I. Lockett, 40, Lewistown truck driver, was under sentence today of six months in the Columbia County jail after being found guilty in federal court at Scranton of selling counterfeit gasoline ration coupons.

Federal attorneys said Lockett obtained the bogus coupons in Baltimore, Md., and sold them in Lewis-town. When arrested, he had more than 1200 fake coupons on him, the government charged.

The sentence imposed on Lockett yesterday by Federal Judge Albert L. Watson was in addition to the one month he has already served in prison.

The office of price administration accused Lockett of being the chief distributor of bogus coupons in the Lewis-town area. He was arrested on information sworn out by Robert O. Keim, OPA investigator.

May Call Special

Session On May 1

HARRISBURG, March 23.—(INS)—Gov. Edward Martin has tentatively decided to issue a call next week reconvening the general assembly in special session, probably May 1, to revise the absentee balloting laws for members of the armed forces.

It was authoritatively learned today that while a definite decision will not be reached until Monday, both the chief executive and a special committee he named to consider the question, were tentatively of the opinion that a special session could not be avoided.

Fourth Term Is

'Squatter Rights'

ATLANTA, Ga., March 23.—(INS)—U. S. Sen. Homer Ferguson (R) of Michigan today termed fourth term potentialities of President Roosevelt as "squatter's rights."

"If a man squats on a piece of ground long enough it automatically becomes his, and I think that is what's happening in the White House," Sen. Ferguson declared.

Sen. Ferguson said he opposed a third term and was "in violent opposition to a fourth term."

Charge Member Of Inner Palace Guard Leads Farley Attack

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS)—David K. Niles, a member of the White House "inner palace guard" was identified today by political observers as the real spearhead of a sudden drive to oust former National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley as party leader in New York state.

The anti-Farley campaign ostensibly was inspired yesterday by leaders of the O'Connell Democratic machine in Albany. But observers in Albany, Washington and New York were quick to trace the movement to Niles and his backdoor "pipeline" to the White House.

These observers were said to view the anti-Farley drive as a move by Niles to minimize Farley's influence in opposition to a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

John J. O'Connell, chairman of the Albany county Democratic committee and uncle of Daniel P. O'Connell, real boss of the Albany-New York machine, set the drive into motion by announcing they would support Thomas J. Cullen to replace Farley as state chairman.

Farley, now in Pittsburgh on business, refused today to comment on the move to oust him from the state leadership. He said: "I never talk politics while I am on a business trip. The state committee meeting is two weeks off. We will wait until then."

Smallest Invader

PROBABLY the smallest American soldier who went ashore on Los Negros island in the invasion of the Admiralty islands was Pfc. Wayne Nassi, above, of Oakland, Cal. Nassi, a former top-ranking jockey, weighed only 98 pounds when he went into the Army but now weighs 118. (International)

Retroactive Raise Is Ruled Against

At council meeting in city hall today, Solicitor Robert White ruled that in view of several court decisions the city council could not set a retroactive date (January 1) to allow city and school treasury employees to enjoy a raise, provided in the 1944 budget and which other city employees received. White said that "you cannot change a salary without previous authority of law."

Mayor John F. Haven pointed out that the increase was provided for in the 1944 budget, the school board was agreeable to a retroactive date and that other employees had been given the advantage of the increase.

Councilman D. O. Davies opposed a retroactive date because of past interpretation in similar problems, he stated.

It appears the persons now serving were not officially designated for those jobs due to conditions that existed in early January in the treasury.

The new rates will prevail when the proposed ordinance is adopted, which will be next week, it is indicated.

GIGANTIC AIR BLOWS STRUCK AT GERMANY

preliminary reports the attack on nearly obliterated Frankfurt was well concentrated.

"Large fires were left burning and smoke was seen rising to a great height, the statement said.

"Mosquitos attacked objectives in Berlin and western Germany. Many mines were laid in enemy waters.

"Thirty-three of our aircraft are missing."

The Evening News estimated that between 1,900 and 2,240 tons of bombs were dropped on Frankfurt. More than an hour after the main attack was over, Mosquito crews saw a huge area of fire in the city and dropped two-ton blockbusters into the conflagration, the air ministry said.

Attack Lasts 30 Minutes

The main attack lasted about 30 minutes, the ministry added.

The first Mosquito crews arriving over Berlin reported seeing fires set in yesterday's daylight American attack.

The returning crewmen said the Frankfurt fires were visible for 200 miles.

Coastal watchers along the English channel shoreline, enjoying the clearest visibility in months, were about to watch other huge fires burning on the French side of the Dover Straits. They said they were able to see "every prominent detail" of the Pas De Calais area, "including numerous German strongpoints."

Immense columns of smoke were reported billowing from the French "invasion coast," testifying to accuracy of recent Allied daylight raids against the area. Many experienced observers expressed the opinion that a large portion of the Calais sector is afire, the smoke rising to a tremendous height and spreading over a considerable distance.

Possibility that a two-way attack may be in the making was seen in the silence of the Vienna outlet just a few minutes after Berlin had reported "major" formations approaching "southeastern Germany." That phrase frequently has been used in the past to indicate assaults by Mediterranean-based bombers upon Austria.

to their Monday landings was crushed quickly. Emirau island, MacArthur disclosed, was taken without any opposition.

The islands are expected to be utilized as bomber bases for two-way assaults on Truk, in conjunction with other bases on Eniwetok to the east.

Bomb Rabaul

Large formations of Solomon-based bombers continued their non-stop assault against Rabaul, pivotal enemy bastion on New Britain island which now has been reduced largely to ashes. Encountering no aerial resistance, the big planes dropped another 133 tons of explosives and incendiaries on the gutted port, starting off a series of deafening blasts.

Large fires were started, 10 or more gun positions were silenced and airport runway was criss-crossed with bomb bursts before the raiders turned for home.

Labor Will Seek To Break Little Steel Formula

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS)—Labor had won the first round today in its campaign to break the little steel wage freeze.

The big AFL and CIO organizations received a "go-ahead" from the War Labor Board to try to convince the board that the formula has created gross inequities and should be raised to compensate for higher living costs.

The WLB directed its six-man steel panel to hear the case of the CIO steelworkers union for a 17-cents-an-hour pay increase in violation of the "little steel" yardstick agreement and agreed to appoint a panel to hear the AFL's case for modification of the freeze.

Only one factor marred the CIO's success. It was a resolution adopted by the WLB, 11 to 1, to the effect that the board's decision to consider evidence submitted to the panels does not indicate any present decision as to whether it will or will not eventually seek a change in the little steel formula.

The highest elevations in the state of Massachusetts are in the Berkshires, about 3,500 feet maximum.

DOUGHBOYS HAVE RITZY LONDON CLUB

By DIXIE TIGHE
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—(INS)—On the fringe of London the Red Cross has taken over a former mansion and turned it into a G. I. club.

Except for the structural grandeur there is little left to suggest the great social elegance of the household. There is now a warm, friendly, relaxed air and the only human link to the past is a butler who served the Master of the Mansion in peace time.

Ahearn Visited There

Before the war, Brian Ahearn was a frequent visitor there—he made a distinct hit with the butler who tucked a small card over one of the bedrooms marked: "Mr. Brian's Room."

When the movie star married Joan Fontaine, the butler hospitably labelled another room, Mrs. Brian's Room—the friendly placards are still over the doors.

This particular club seems to give the men more freedom than any of the many Red Cross clubs I have visited. There is no regimentation, no organized amusement and the woman who presides over the club, Lady Doverdale, has her own ideas about making an overseas home for the boys.

More Like Home

She feels the boys want to get away from things military when they come there and it is her intention to make the club homey and not clubby.

"The boys want to be mothered," Lady Doverdale said, "and I never heard of a mother appearing in the living room and saying, 'Now, boys, at three o'clock we will have a lecture on Ancient Architecture.'"

Neighbors drop into the club to invite the boys for meals and walks and cycling. But there is nothing organized about these invitations. There are attractive young Red Cross workers about, available for hard games, as ping pong partners, as added dart throwers.

Beds Taken Early

The popularity of the club is evidenced in a sign on a blackboard which says:

"Sorry. We can't hold mattresses after 10 p. m." The club has a very limited number of beds but a good number of mattresses can be placed on the floor of the former drawing room.

As for the butler who once chilled or warmed fine wine, he is now a handy man with a bottle opener and can do a quick job on decapping soft drink bottles.

Officers Are Welcome

This is one club where the GIs have okayed officers as long as they aren't from their own camps. The rank of the same hearth is inclined to get too bossy the boys find, but there is fine fraternizing between visiting officers, including many Polish officers, and the men.

The club is also very popular with dogs who have vast gardens to romp in. These are lucky dogs compared with the two unhappy pets owned by General Eisenhower and General Eaker.

Had To Leave Dogs

General Eaker could not take Winston, his English (and assorted) bull to North Africa and it is now a dog-house-guest of one of the General's friends.

General Eisenhower's dog, Teleg, a Scottish terrier, has been banished to quarantine according to English law. England's quarantine law stamped out rabies in this country.

The Sacredness Of Life Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

The Good Shepherd.

"Know ye not that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit?"—I Cor. 6:19.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 26 is Genesis 1:27, 28; Matthew 12:11, 12; Romans 14:19-21; I Corinthians 6:19, 20, the Golden Text being I Cor. 6:19. "Know ye not that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit?")

In order to make us see clearly that our bodies are sacred, our lesson goes back to the beginning of the Bible, to Genesis.

"So God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him: male and female created He them."

"And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth."

Created in the image of God. If we were to think of those words when we are tempted to do an unworthy thing, wouldn't it stop us and make us vow once again to treat our bodies as being worthy of our Creator?

Man was given dominion over all animals—the fish of the sea, of the fowl of the air, over every living thing. And besides, God blessed this man and woman He had made.

Heals On Sabbath

The second episode in our lesson recalls a time when Jesus found a man with a withered hand, in the temple on the Sabbath. Jesus wished to heal the hand. The scribes and Pharisees, as usual, were on hand to find fault with Him, so they asked Him if it was lawful to heal on the Sabbath.

His answer was, "What man shall there be among you, that shall have one sheep, and if it fall into a pit on the sabbath day, will he not lay hold of it, and lift it out? How much then is a man better than a sheep? Wherefore it is lawful to do well on the sabbath." Man whom the Creator had made in His own image and given power over other things—surely he was important enough to be healed, even on the holy day. He then healed the man's arm. Even a Pharisee would save his only sheep on the sabbath—but not a man of much more worth to the world.

Paul, speaking to the Romans, said, "Let us follow after the things that make for peace, and things wherewith one may edify another. For meat destroy not the work of God. All things indeed are pure; but it is evil for that man eateth with offence."

It is good neither to eat flesh nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak."

When we are with others we should be considerate of our companions. We should not be offensive to them; we should not tempt them to eat too much or drink too much. It is an odd thing, that even when people know and deplore the fact that a friend drinks too much, they will urge and urge him to take more. Why do they not, rather, by their own example, persuade him to take no intoxicating beverage at all?

Decorating Our Bodies

Eating and drinking to excess and in an offensive manner, are plain bad manners, of course, but it goes further than that. It is a decoration of our bodies which are made in the image of God.

To the Corinthians Paul wrote: "What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own?"

"For ye are bought with a price; therefore, glorify God in your spirit, which are God's."

Paul means that Jesus paid the price for us—the price that "bought" us for the Right, and that we belong to God and should therefore act as if we knew we did.

If You Get Up Nights You Can't Feel Right

If you have to get up 3 or more times a night your rest is broken and it's no wonder if you feel tired and run down before your time. Functional rather than organic or systemic Kidney and Bladder trouble often may be the cause of many pains and symptoms simply because the Kidneys may be tired and not working fast enough in filtering and removing irritating excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. So if you get up nights or suffer from burning, scanty or frequent passages, leg pains, back-ache or swollen ankles, due to non-organic or non-systemic Kidney and Bladder troubles, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called CATER. Because it has given such joyous, happy relief in so high a percentage of cases, CATER is sold under a guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory. CATER costs only 35¢ at drugists.

Millions will not get an opportunity to vote this spring.

Kiwanians Hear Col. Gentzkow

Tells Local Service Club Of Work Being Done To Rehabilitate Soldiers

In an interesting address given before the New Castle Kiwanis club Thursday, Col. G. J. Gentzkow, commander of the Deshon General hospital at Butler, told of the work being done at the hospital to rehabilitate handicapped soldiers sent there for treatment.

The Butler hospital specializes in treating men who have eye, ear, and nose disabilities. Colonel Gentzkow explained. Particular emphasis is placed on the deaf, who are taught lip reading, and later on are given hearing aids.

He stated that these men who are handicapped feel that they have done the job they were sent out to do, and while they have disabilities, they do not feel that they are handicapped. Many of them have done a nasty job and they want to forget it.

He urged his hearers not to pry into the thoughts of these men, and to treat them as if they had no disability, as that is the way they want to be treated. He said one should not help them unless asked to, because sometimes there is danger of aggravating their injuries.

Colonel Gentzkow was accompanied by Lt. Col. W. S. Love of the Deshon hospital staff.

Plans were made by the club for Farmers Night, which will be observed next Wednesday evening, with a dinner at The Castleton at 6:30 o'clock. The program will be announced later.

Delaware, Maryland, Kentucky and Missouri all were represented in the Confederate Congress although none seceded from the Union during the war between the states.

Policewoman Is Ridding Movies Of Male Mashers

By JEANETTE SMITS
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 23.—The movie theatre wolf is delighted when pretty, dark-haired Emma Alden suggests, after he has made a few advances, that they retire to the back of the theatre.

But his delight turns to surprise and chagrin when "the back of the theatre" turns out to be the masher's office and he discovers that Emma Alden is a policewoman.

Tracking down mashers (she's caught a number this way) is just part of the day's work for Miss Alden, who's a graduate of Hunter College with an M. A. from Columbia university, and has been with the New York City police department for a year.

Relies on Her Wits

Miss Alden took a strenuous three months' course, including ju jitsu and shooting, to prepare her for her present job—but up to the present time she hasn't found the need to use either the ju jitsu or her revolver.

"You see," she explained, "we're trained to use our wits instead."

In ridding movie houses of annoying mashers, she usually takes a seat by herself, for "the masher is looking for girls alone." The suggestion that they go to the back of the house comes after he has started his usual routine with unescorted girls.

Tries to Help Girls

"I think the biggest thrill of my job," said Miss Alden, "is helping to get young girls back on the right track. The term 'boshy-sock' is really erroneous. Most of the adolescents who have run away from home try to look as adult as possible. They wear stockings."

A new racket which is taking up considerable of policewomen's time is that of fortune-telling and spiritualists.

These ghouls prey on the families of servicemen, selling them the idea that they can get in touch with the spirits of their boys reported missing in action.

How She Gets Fakes

In one recent case, Miss Alden said, a man came in and reported that his wife was neglecting her other children, breaking up the family and spending all their money on a spiritualist, who claimed she was going to "contact" their missing soldier son.

"We go to these fakes and get our evidence," the policewoman explained. "Usually they say they can't make the contact at first but ask us to come back and pay another $1 or $2 and they're sure they can succeed."

Writes to Soldiers

Miss Alden and another policewoman visited a "voodoo doctor" and complained of headaches and headaches when they said the doctor hadn't been able to cure. The woman rubbed their necks with perfume, then sold them oils and incense, "which would work magic." The evidence, including the perfume which it took several baths to wash off, was sufficient for a conviction.

In addition to her duties as a policewoman, which keep her on call 24 hours a day, Miss Alden manages to write for the police department magazine and corresponds once a week with soldiers in Sicily, Panama, Italy and camps in this country. She was in charge of the Fourth War Loan drive for the policewomen. The drive went over the top.

Approve Move To Cut Conventions

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—The Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade of Philadelphia yesterday approved the plan to eliminate all unnecessary conventions not directed to essential wartime or postwar problems.

The action of the board of directors was announced by George W. Elliott, general secretary. He urged that "no effort be spared to conserve every possible facility in a constructive and positive effort to win the war."

The plan was submitted by the Philadelphia Convention and Tourist Bureau, Inc., to the Office of Defense Transportation. It was titled the "Philadelphia Convention Plan" and urged the cancellation of all gatherings not devoted to the express purpose of "shortening the war or to discussion of essential reconstruction and postwar problems."

Library Reports On Books, Circulation

Free Public Library Houses Nearly 60,000 Volumes, Annual Report Shows

As of December 31, 1943, New Castle Free Public Library had a total of 59,859 volumes on its shelves, of which slightly over 8% were reference books, 59% classed as adult reading, and nearly 33% were in the juvenile department, according to the annual report of the public library submitted to the board of trustees by Miss Alice Sterling, librarian.

Of a total of 141,396 books loaned out for home use during the year, 60.5% were adult fiction and non-fiction and 39.5% juvenile fiction and non-fiction.

Adults borrowed four times as many books of fiction as non-fiction, young people only two and a half times as many. During the past two years however, the circulation of adult non-fiction has stepped up to 20% of the total circulation. In 1941 and 1940 it was only 13% of the adult total. Circulation figures are as follows:

Adult fiction, 68,391.
Adult non-fiction, 17,086.
Juvenile fiction, 39,616.
Juvenile non-fiction, 16,303.
Total, 141,396.

With 18,477 borrowers registered at the library, average circulation per borrower was 7.6 books. As is to be expected with nearly every employable man and woman employed full time, with what was once leisure time now being spent in volunteer work by many people, and with the absence of many borrowers in the armed services, circulation showed a drop last year from 1942.

Registration of new borrowers during the year was 968 adults, 728 juvenile. Of the city's 47,638 population, 38.7% are registered library borrowers.

Graham Has Booklets On Gardening, Food

Victory Gardeners And Canners Can Secure Pamphlets By Writing Congressman

Congressman Louis E. Graham announced today that he has again had made available to him a limited number of publications for distribution through his office, which have been made up into sets.

They consist of two new Victory Garden Handbooks and several leaflets of value to housewives on canning, drying and the preservation of fruits and vegetables, and plans for wartime meals.

A set of these bulletins will be sent to anyone who will write him at room 1628, New House Office building, Washington, D. C.

Last year he was unable to fill all of the orders because some of those writing in failed to sign their name or to give their correct address.

The allotment is limited and distribution will continue as long as the supply lasts. "I shall be happy to cooperate with all who are anxious and willing to help produce the necessary food supply. The publications offered are the result of research work by the Department of Agriculture and I consider it a privilege to be able to pass this valuable information on to those of my constituents who may be interested," Mr. Graham says.

Union Officials Plead Guilty To Violating Law

SCRANTON, Pa., March 23.—(INS)—Four mine union officials were under orders today from Federal Judge Albert W. Johnson to pay fines of $250 each after they pleaded guilty to violating the Smith-Connally anti-strike law.

The four defendants, all officers of Truesdale local union No. 2439 of the United Mine Workers of America, were also placed on probation for six months.

The men changed their pleas of not guilty when arraigned in U. S. district court at Scranton yesterday for trial. They were accused by the government of having instigated a strike of 1100 miners last December 8 and 9 at the Glen Alden Coal company mine in Hanover township, Luzerne county.

The defendants were Dennis Brislun of Warrior Run, president of the union; Russell Leck of Lower Asakam, recording secretary; Leo Kussavage of Hanover township, and Victor Martusa of Nanticoke, grievance committee members.

GREENVILLE, Pa., March 23.—About 2,000 new books have been ordered for Library No. 3, at Camp Reynolds. Lt. Bess Sheppard, assistant special services officer, announced today.

The library, formerly located in Service Club No. 3, will be moved to a separate building, where complete renovations are being made to add to the comfort and needs of the soldiers who will make use of the library.

He has never missed one hour's work through shortage of electricity

In the greatest electricity-using country on the face of the globe . . . In the greatest period of electricity-using in all history . . . In four tremendous years of building and expanding, of shortages and rationings, of manpower losses and material scarcities . . .

Not one war worker has had to lose one hour's work through shortage of electricity.

Not one blue service star in any American window has turned to gold for lack of anything electricity could send to the battlefields.

Not one war plant has had to stop making any war material because it couldn't get electricity.

Yet you have never had to black out your lights or shut off your radio for want of that magic current that is doing such a war job.

The record of the electric power industry in the war has been one of the glorious chapters in the history of American industry.

Electric power has been the backbone of the American grand strategy of saving American lives by overwhelming the enemy with sheer weight of mechanical equipment.

For electricity is the mightiest material force in the world. It moves most of the machinery in this country. In this war of mechanism, one of America's greatest guarantees of victory is in the fact that we possess so much more power than any other nation . . . 40% of all the electric power in the world.

Your electricity is one of the greatest bargains in your budget today. You get about twice as much for your money as you did 15 years ago.

Westinghouse is proud to have been able to help the electric power industry get ready for the tremendous job it has done in these war years. We are sure Americans stand at the threshold of fabulous new things in the field of electricity in the years of peace.

Don't Waste It

There is plenty of electric power for every legitimate use . . . but there isn't too much coal, there aren't too many railroad cars to carry it from the mines, there isn't too much manpower in mines, on railroads, in power houses. So, since all of these things enter into making electricity, when you use less electricity at home, you save it for vital war production. Forest Streams Provide Water For Many People

HARRISBURG, March 23.—More than a quarter-million people and a number of industries depend upon the state forests for their water supplies, James A. Keil, secretary of forests and waters, said today.

A survey by W. E. Montgomery, deputy secretary, reveals that towns and cities in Pennsylvania which have well forested watersheds suffer comparatively little from water shortages during drought periods.

Five municipalities, Chambersburg, Shippensburg, South Renovo, Waynesboro and Mont Alto, have their impounding basins for water supplies, and 15 other municipalities have more than 50 per cent of their watersheds in state forests. Within the six forested counties of Bedford, Fulton, Franklin, Cameron, Monroe and Pike, there are 335 miles of pure mountain streams against 15 that are polluted. Not one of the 74 streams which originate within the forested areas of these counties are contaminated.

At the present time 16 per cent of the forest area of the Susquehanna river watershed, 15 per cent of the Juniata watershed and 25 per cent of the west branch of the Susquehanna river watershed are within the state forests.

Where there is a good forest cover rainfall is conserved, erosion lessened and a more even and regulated flow of streams secured. Where the forest is protected nature holds back the water in the soil and slowly feeds it to springs and streams, delivering water to reservoirs evenly instead of in torrents, and clear in-

Probing Fatal Scranton Blast

SCRANTON, Pa., March 23.—(INS)—Two separate probes were underway today to determine the cause of the explosion which killed two men and injured five others yesterday at the new bomber wing plant of the Murray Corporation of America at South Scranton. The investigations were being conducted by military authorities and company officials.

Victims of the blast, which occurred in a tunnel leading from the boiler plant to the main building employing 2,000 persons, were Leo Moran, 42, and Thomas P. Ruddy, 35, both of Scranton. Ruddy was the father of eight children.

Those injured were Jerome Corcoran, William Stanton, Henry Labudi and George Rorick, all of Scranton, and Dominick Crucioli, former Olympic chief of police. The condition of Corcoran and Labudi was reported critical.

FIND STOLEN TRUCKS
PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—(INS)—Police today recovered three trucks stolen from the Wright Trucking Co., in Philadelphia, but continued their search for more than $250,000 worth of goods taken from the vehicles.

The empty trucks were found abandoned. Their contents, mostly government property, had been removed by the thieves.

Morell Explains Change In Story

Says He Has Been Taking
'Rap' For Something
He Didn't Do

MERCER, Pa., March 23.—(INS)—William A. Morell, 20-year-old parolee, today explained that he had turned against his erstwhile girl friend, Janice Graham, because:

"I've decided she's not the right kind of girl for me."

The farm girl was arrested yesterday on an information charging her with the shotgun slayings of Mrs. Katherine Wilson, 78, and Robert McKay, 70, on the Everett N. Wilson farm at Mercer last October 7. Morell has been convicted of manslaughter in the death of the third victim, Mrs. Helen Wilson, 48, wife of the farm owner.

"I sure upset the applecart," Morell said as he explained why after previously refusing to say anything against Janice before a Mercer county grand jury, he suddenly changed his mind during a trial at which the girl was accused of being an accessory after the fact.

It was upon the conclusion of his testimony, in which he placed the blame for the triple deaths upon the girl, that the commonwealth nolle pressed the accessory charges and ordered Janice's arrest for the shotgun slayings.

"I've been taking the rap for her for something I didn't do," Morell said. "I'm going to stick to my story and I won't back down if she goes on trial. I'm not going to go soft again."

The pair fled the farm together last October 7 and were later arrested in an Ohio farmhouse.

GI Joes Fall Heavily For British Girls

By JOSEPH THOMAS
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—(INS)—Hundreds of Uncle Sam's soldiers have fallen hook, line and sinker for British girls.

Many a church, chapel and register office in this little island has witnessed an Anglo-American wedding ceremony during the past year.

Weekly suburban newspapers front-page details of these weddings with photographs of the uniformed groom and bride surrounded by pretty bridesmaids.

It is a common sight to see a GI walking through a market place carrying the shopping basket of his lady love. Soldiers even can be seen queuing for oranges, lemons, eggs, etc., either for their bride, sweetheart or ma-in-law.

Apart from these serious romances, however, thousands of "good-time" girls make certain that the doughboys are not lonely. They meet them after business hours and whisk them off to dance halls, pubs, ice-hockey or roller skating arenas, dog racetracks or theaters.

Usually the doughboy insists on escorting the girl home late at night to discover later that he has missed the last bus or train back to London and has to walk many miles in the blackout before reaching his headquarters.

He generally curses a little during his lonely walk, but the very next evening he is willingly whisked away again to another place of amusement.

Sometimes the GI will find his companion rather expensive to entertain, but Johnny Doughboy is now beginning to realize that it is far healthier to spend his evenings this way than hang around the streets of the West End, to be pounced upon by "Piccadilly Commandos" who soon rob him of health as well as his billfold once they get him inside their den of disease.

The London urchin has found a way to overcome the severe rationing. You find them outside American headquarters, no main rail stations or wherever American armed forces assemble. With plaintive voices, they approach hundreds of GIs saying, "Got any gum, Yank?" Their pockets bulge with candy and chewing gum when they begin to their homes every night.

Sometimes they succeed in "caddying" a packet of cigarettes for their parents.

NEW GUINEA NATIVES
DEVELOP A "RACKET"

ATLANTIC CITY—(INS)—New Guinea natives, paid a can of corned beef by American airmen for each Jap prisoner they bring in, have developed a new wrinkle in that business, according to Tech Sgt. Carl P. Averill, of Portland, Me., a Fortress radio-gunner now awaiting a new assignment.

"There were quite a few Jap soldiers cut off in New Guinea," the sergeant back from two years in the southwest Pacific, explained.

"Many were weak from malnutrition, so the natives would capture them and bring them in for a can of 'corned wile'." But they made a racket of the deal. Instead of bringing in three or four Japs in one group, as they started to do, they would keep them "on ice" in the jungle and bring them in only one at a time. That way they got more corned beef."

Yeoman Stow Is Aiding Campaign

Gave Up Good Job With DuPont Company To Relieve Man For Active Service

DOROTHY N. STOW

Yeoman Second Class Dorothy N. Stow just had to pick the WAVES when she joined a women's service, her last name being a common navy term meaning "to pack away or hide."

Before entering the women's reserve training school at Stillwater, Okla., in February, 1943, Yeoman Stow was a personnel secretary for the DuPont company in Wilmington, Del., her home. She was graduated from high school in Vero Beach, Fla., and later attend business college in New York state.

During the past few years she has taken an active interest in amateur dramatics and radio work, gaining valuable experience for her present recruiting work.

Miss Stow has been on former recruiting drives in Joannstown, DuBois, Greensburg, Wheeling, Huntston and Kittanning. She will be in New Castle for the first part of the current WAVE recruiting drive.

Kakos Heads Crew Building Roads Through Jungle

By SERGT. RAY FITZPATRICK
Marine Corps Combat Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH-WEST PACIFIC—(Delayed)—Carpenter's Mate Third Class Steve Kakos, of 23 East Long Avenue, New Castle, Pa., is head of one of the Seabee road crews that are pushing roads through the jungle on this former Jap-held island at amazing speed.

The 30-year-old Seabee's mother lives at the New Castle address. He is a graduate of New Castle high school, and attended Youngstown and Geneva colleges and Carnegie Tech.

The road crews have worked since before dawn till after dark each day since an expeditionary force landed here recently. Miles of roadways have already been built.

A Jap attempt to bomb the convoy landing troops here gave Seabee Kakos his most exciting moments of the war. Several of the dive bombers were shot down by anti-aircraft guns, while others were downed by American fighter planes. Japs have bombed the island several times since the occupation but without success.

Extension Of Good Neighbor Policy Is Urged

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—(INS)—Maintenance and extension of the good neighbor policy throughout the world was recommended today as the most solid basis for permanent peace by Assistant Secretary of State Adolf A. Berle, Jr.

Addressing the 31st annual schoolmen's week convention in Philadelphia, Berle declared:

"Peace, when it comes, will not last long if it is merely a grab bag in which each nation seeks to take reckless advantage of its neighbors."

If the United States is to retain its place as a land of peace and progress, it must do its utmost to create a condition of affairs and organize world relations so peace can be kept, he said.

OPA Suspension Order

PITTSBURGH, March 23.—(INS)—The Southside Service Station of Melvin & Speck, New Castle, today was under a six months OPA suspension order for violating gasoline rationing regulations.

The suspension, which becomes effective April 1, with a stay on May 1, came following a hearing before Commissioner John J. O'Rourke.

PAINTING STOLEN

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS)—Police were seeking a clue to the thief who walked into the Metropolitan Museum of Art and stole a 14th century painting of St. Thomas, valued at between $3,000 and $5,000.

The panel is attributed to Simone Martini of Siena. It was removed from the wall 15 minutes before a guard checked it.

WAR WRITERS FOR PROBE OF CENSORSHIP

By CLARK LEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, March 23.—American and British correspondents who have served in Italy and are now in London to cover the second front invasion, are hopeful that General Sir Harold Alexander's criticism of press reports from the Anzio beachhead will result in a British-American investigation of military and political censorship in the whole Mediterranean area.

Censorship in Italy was from the correspondents' viewpoint unnecessarily strict from the first day of the invasion. In recent weeks and especially since the beachhead landings, it became so restrictive that correspondents were reduced to writing feature stories. It was impossible to give a timely, accurate and complete account of day-by-day events at the beachhead.

Many Facts Concealed

More and more, censorship there has gone beyond the original and necessary restrictions imposed by military security and has become a means of concealing any facts that the officers of General Alexander's 15th Army group, or General Mark Wayne Clark's Fifth Army, or General Sir Henry Maitland-Wilson's AFHQ did not want known in the outside world.

The effect of the directives and regulations has been to create an artificial mesh of restrictions through which all battlefield accounts are strained. After censorship, the reports have very little resemblance to the original accounts as written by correspondents and present a picture totally foreign to the actualities of the battle itself.

The censorship policy is dictated by the high command. A reporter for a New York paper told me the other day of a conversation with a high officer of the 15th Army group. He quoted the officer as saying that he did not believe in a free press either in peace time or war time. That officer is in a job where he influences official reports of battles in Italy.

As Alexander Sees It

General Alexander himself is reputed to feel that on one occasion he was badly let down by the press. The story goes that while directing the retreat from Burma, Alexander planned to elude the Japs by using one of two escape routes. He found the Japs waiting, and believes that this was the result of a newspaper story predicting that he would take the certain route.

London newspapers have been asking why reports from the Anzio beachhead are delayed for two or more days beyond the time they were written. This is because of regulations that prohibit the release of front line stories until the communiqué has been issued. By the time the communiqué has been wirelessly to the beachhead and the newspaper stories written and wirelessly back, two days usually elapse. Beyond that, correspondents can only write about subjects covered by the communiqué. If the communiqué does not mention tanks, reporters cannot describe a tank battle.

More and more, two broad lines of policy far beyond anything envisioned by Washington and London as falling within the province of field censorship, are being followed by the censors. Important stories are killed every day on the grounds that—in the opinion of the censors—they would either "bolster enemy morale" or "damage morale on the United Nations home front."

It readily can be seen that these reasons can be employed without limit to suppress any news of any nature.

Hospital Train Carries War Story

Correspondent Gives Inkling
Of Conditions Of Men Coming Back 'The Hard Way'

By ELGAR BROWN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ABOARD ARMY SERVICE FORCES HOSPITAL TRAIN
(INS)—This is a trainload of American soldiers coming back from war the hard way.

Some are wounded. Some are sick. Some have been fatigue victims. Those who can talk say a variety of things. All are fervently thankful to be rolling home. Some regret they didn't see more of the war and actually complain about it. Some are worried about their sweethearts or wives seeing them without a leg or an arm.

Some can talk, but say nothing. This train, under the supervision of the Second Service Command, started at Halloran General Hospital, Staten Island, N. Y., several mobile hospitals such as this leave Staten Island every week.

Story In Each Soldier

Many of the ward cars have long tiers of double-decker bunks. There's a soldier in each bunk, and a story in each soldier.

Tech. Sgt. Anton Nelson, 22, of Missoula, Mont., who has a one-year old son he's never seen. Lost his left leg to the fire of a Messerschmitt during a Fortress raid over Schweinfurt, Germany.

"I looked down and my left leg was just dangling, all shot to pieces," he said. "I stared at it curiously, like it wasn't part of me at all."

However, Nelson kept firing his waist gun until he was weakened by loss of blood.

Stops At Doshon

The train makes several stops, at Doshon General Hospital, Butler, Pa.; Fletcher General Hospital, Cambridge, O.; and at Deshler, O., the train will split. One section will go west to Schick General Hospital in Clinton, Iowa, and the Bushnell General Hospital in Brigham, Utah. The other section is headed for Percy Jones General Hospital at Battle Creek, Mich., where most of these men are going.

Amj. A. Donald McLane of Englewood, N. J., commanding officer, reveals that the army has enough ward cars to make up approximately 40 trains.

One Injured Woman

There one injured woman on the train, Lt. Mary Frances Ford, 25, army nurse from South Haven, Mich., who developed a lung lesion while in the Persian gulf area and was sent home.

In the next car, there are men, but no bandages or signs of wounds. Just silence.

An officer sits beside a private. They both stare out of the window, apparently uninterested in the passing landscape.

Another soldier is playing idly with his identification tag. A public relations officer explains in whispers that these are the most pitiful. These are the neuro-psychiatrics.

The public relations officer suggests that little can be written about these men. No names, of course.

No names, then. Just men with blank faces.

Colonel W. S. Love Addresses Club

Interesting Musical And Lecture Program Sponsored By Woman's Club Group

"The health of our present day army is the best that it ever has been," so said Colonel W. S. Love, of the Deshon General Hospital, Wednesday afternoon, when he addressed members of the community and welfare department of the Woman's club and their friends in the Y. W. C. A.

Col. Love replaced Col. C. J. Ientzkow, the latter being unavoidably detained at the hospital, due to urgent business.

In an interesting manner Col. Love spoke on the health of the army in general and discussed the subject of how we should treat the boys when they come home, and explained the various medical treatments administered to the boys.

Col. Love commented the use of blood plasma, citing the many times it has saved lives. For this he gave credit to the American Red Cross. Colonel Love concluded with a note of encouragement to all, to help the boys in rehabilitating themselves, especially during the reconditioning period, for which many soldiers will be stationed here in the city in the very near future.

Col. Love answered questions at the close of his talk.

Colonel Love was introduced by Mrs. Henry E. Golder, chairman of the welfare department of the club, introduced, Mrs. William Caldwell, who entertained with a musical program. She was accompanied at the piano by Helen Ewing.

Among the guests attending the evening were Red Cross nurses aides from the New Castle hospital and American Memorial hospital.

TO FUMIGATE COUNTY HOME

After hearing County Commissioner Joseph F. Travers' description of vermin conditions in the county home at a meeting Wednesday morning at the court house the commissioners have decided to employ an exterminator to rid the place of bugs.

Commissioner Travers also reported there are but 2 bathtubs for the accommodation of 100 or more men. "Many of the men haven't had a bath in weeks," said he. "I believe we should have shower baths out there and insist that the men staying there should bathe at regular intervals."

Lend-Lease Bill Extension Given Committee Favor

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS)—The House Foreign Affairs committee today reported out a lend-lease extension bill with a provision curbing the President's power in final settlements of accounts.

Extending the present act for one year, the committee attached an amendment, saying:

"Nothing in this action shall be construed to authorize the President to assume any obligation on the part of the United States in any final settlement with respect to postwar economic policy or post war military policy except in accordance with established constitutional procedure."

The section presumably would give a lend-lease settlement the status of a treaty or international agreement, making it subject to approval by two-thirds vote of the Senate or majority of both houses, committee members said.

Civilian Defense Awards Will Be Made On Friday

For 500 or more hours of service in the Lawrence County Council, Office of Civilian Defense, 32 men and women will be honored Friday night in the court house with the presentation of certificates and service bars.

The thirty-two to be honored are merely the first group to be thus honored. There are a number of others and other presentation services will follow.

The certificates and service bars are a public recognition by the State OGD of services rendered in any of the many branches of OGD work, air raid warnings, auxiliary police, demolition squads, control center operations and the like.

GOVERNMENT SEEKS SUM FROM LUMBER CO.

PITTSBURGH, March 23.—(INS)—The federal government today sought a $34,567.05 judgment against the Shingler Brothers Lumber Company of New Castle, because of alleged sales of southern pine lumber in excess of maximum OPA prices.

Defendants of the federal suit filed in Pittsburgh were E. L. Stitzinger, W. D. Stitzinger, E. L. Stitzinger, Jr., G. K. Stitzinger, and Mary Kuttach, partners in the business.

The excessive prices were said to have been charged between May 3, 1943 and July 14, 1943. It was stated in the bill of complaint. The amount sought is treble the alleged excessive prices and is brought under the emergency control act.

MAJOR IS MISSING

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS)—The Eastern Defense Command announced today that Maj. Robert R. Clark, of Ridgewood, N. J., assigned to the headquarters of the southwest sector, EDC, at Raleigh, N. C., has been missing since Friday.

Maj. Clark left on that day to visit Fort Bragg, N. C., and a search by police and Army authorities since that time has been fruitless, the Army said. He was 43 years old.

Last year freighters took 11 months to make a round trip between the U. S. and the Near East. Now, thanks to speedier methods, the same trip takes but five and a half months.

Record Breaking Fighter Squadron Returning To U.S.

'Skull And Crossbones' Squadron Makes Stop En Route At Pearl Harbor

By CLINTON GREEN

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, March 23.—

(INS)—The Navy's record breaking, land-based "Skull and Crossbones" fighter squadron, on their way to the mainland for rest and reforming, aired their South Pacific adventures today in the quarters of Rear Admiral C. A. Fownall, new Pacific fleet air commander.

The squadron, Flying Corsairs, has a total of 154 Japs shot down with approximately half as many probable. They never lost a bomber to enemy aircraft. No ship under their protection was ever hit by enemy aircraft, and they never failed to complete an assignment.

While flying more combat hours and more sorties than any other outfit in the Pacific the "Skull and Crossbones" group destroyed seven Jap cargo ships and 17 barges. Taken with the planes they shot down, this is the most damage done the Japs by any fighter group.

Commanded by Lt. Comdr. J. T. Blackburn, U. S. N., Chevy Chase, Md., the squadron includes 12 aces. Among them is Lt. C. D. "Timmy" Giles, Pittsburgh, Pa., credited with eight planes.

Lt. (jg) Ira C. Kepford of Muskegon, Mich., with a score of 16 downed enemy planes is credited with saving one of our carriers by shooting down a Jap torpedo bomber just as he was about to get a sitting shot at the flattop.

Kepford has lived a full life while rolling up his total of Japs. Once, with his right wing set afire by Jap ack-ack, Kepford flew the flaming plane 60 miles home. Kepford landed the blazing plane on one wheel and in darkness.

Another time he nearly got it during a four hour and ten minute flight which took him nearly to the Philippines. Kepford said:

"I broke my rule never to fight without a wingman. I saw a Zero float plane on combat patrol and went down and got it. Then 20 Jap fighters dived on me from above."

The first of these Zeros overtook Kepford, and he got it. Four other Zeros boxed him in. Kepford radioed to his base:

"I'm boxed in. If I don't get back, chalk me up for two more."

But Kepford eluded the Zeros finally and got home.

Twice Kepford shot down four Japs in one action.

Gile was stroke of the Yale crew. Since returning from rowing to flying he has set up a record of downing three Zeros in one minute.

Other highlights of the squadron's 79 days in action included the time Ensign George M. Keller covered himself with beer and glory by flying a load of brew in to Guadalcanal. On the way he encountered Jap anti-aircraft fire. The beer exploded.

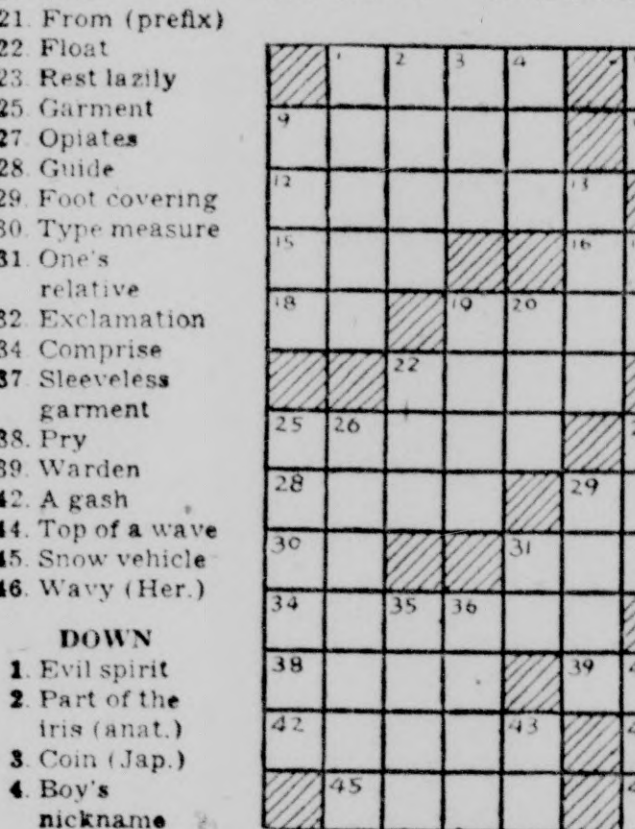

BUY LOCAL TOMATOES

PITTSBURGH, March 23.—(INS)—For the first time in 42 years, the H. J. Heinz company is contracting for tomatoes to be grown in Allegheny county. Contracts, however, will be limited to experienced growers.

In the early days of the company it bought large quantities of fruits and vegetables in this county, but as the industry expanded local supplies diminished and crops from other areas were shipped in.

Second Half Rally Nets Stars Repeat Win Over Church Loop Kings

Those more than 900 fans who swarmed into Ben Franklin Junior High's small gym last night saw a million dollar basketball show which started with the Industrial All-Stars pulling up from behind in the last half to score a repeat win over the Epworths' Church Loop Kings, 42-38.

The Eps soon grabbed the front post and gained an 11-8 first period lead which they boosted to 23-17 by halftime.

With the start of the last half, the Stars started clicking. "Dom" Covelli, the sharpie who guided Ne-Ca-Hi to the state finals in 1936, sparked a third period attack which netted the Stars 16 points and a 33-30 edge.

Eps Tie Count
Play in the fourth sizzled with the Stars holding the upper hand by a shade during most of the stanza. Trailing by four points in the last minute, the Epworths got back in the game when "Zeke" Wainio and Fred Wimer looped fielders, knotting the count at 38-38.

Bylor's pair of fouls however, poured through the mesh a few seconds later and proved to be the winning shot.

Covelli, ranged among the greatest causers in Ne-Ca-Hi history, drew the "ahs" of the gallery with an all-around game that sparkled and was near flawless. Offensively, the little giant zipped six fielders and two fouls to lead the Stars' attack. Jay Thomas chipped in with 10 points besides unflinching an impressive defensive exhibition. Bylor accounted for nine markers.

For the Eps, Fred Wimer and Wainio shared the spotlight, dividing 22 points and playing an impressive defensive game.

Last Saturday night, the Stars overcame a 15-point lead to defeat the Epworths, 38-37.

Bronzers Lose Crown In Closing 33 Seconds Before Overflow Crowd

Nick Horney's Overhead Shot Ends Thrill-Studded Set; Contest Close Throughout; Pitzer, Series Star, Flips Dozen Points; Santangelo, Davis Top Scorers For Champs; Over 900 Excited Fans Overtax Franklin Gym; Red Cross To Receive Between $850-$950 Donation.

In a game bountifully supplied with Hollywood-like thrills and spectacular play, Shenango Pottery's game passers defeated an equally bold Johnson Bronze aggregation in the last 33 seconds, 28-26, to capture the 1943-44 championship of the Industrial league. The three-game series wind up, staged on Ben Franklin Junior High's court Wednesday night, lured more than 900 pop-eyed fans.

Nick Horney's perfect overhead shot from outside the foul circle, four seconds after "Bus" Davis deked the count, 26-26, with an eye-lifting one-handed flip, proved to be the series-winning shot. The Pottery passers used a foul try in the closing seconds, electing to take the ball out of bounds and held possession until the whistle shrieked. With three minutes to go, Pitzer connected on one out of two coils and dribbled in, a few seconds later, for a sensational left-handed hook shot which pushed the Bronzers ahead, 26-20.

Pitzer Leaves Game
Santangelo meshed a charity "ass" Davis marched up to the free throw stripe next but muffed. Ev Laitinen nabbed the rebound pass, dribbled to the side and zipped a sparkling two-player. At the one and a half left point and the count favoring JB, 26-23, Francis Pitzer, the series' standout, committed his fourth foul.

Davis, however, failed. Laitinen proceeded to the foul line and coolly dropped the ball through. The clock showed only 33 seconds and JB ahead 26-24. On the out of bounds play, the Pottery intercepted and Davis grabbed a pass and fired the game-tying shot.

On the next out of bounds play, following the field goal, the Pottery again intercepted. Hughes rifled to Horney. The tall athlete gracefully tossed an overhead flip—a clean fielder. The clash ended with the Pottery "freezing" perfectly.

JB was slow in getting started, trailing 5-0 before registering. Koszela's lone arch came a few seconds before the close of the period.

Bronze Leads 11-8
Laitinen dribbled along the side and scored on a one-hander to open the second. Pitzer's hook shot was a bull's-eye and Laitinen connected on a foul. Kendra cut the deficit to 8-6 on a fast cut play under the rim and shortly after stymied the count with a double-decker from the foul circle. Pitzer arched an under-handed heave to boost the Bronzers to the front. Kelly's foul netted the JB an 11-8 margin as the half ended.

In machine gun-like fashion, Hughes, Santangelo and Vargo tallied for the Pottery at the start of the third to push the Bronzers behind, 14-11. Kelly's tip-in and Kendra's two-player from the side again shifted the lead. Pitzer counted a pair of Annie Oakleys, widening the gap to three points at 17-14. Guido Santangelo parked an overhead peg through the mesh and Davis tied the score with a foul. Pitzer again elevated JB to the top, 19-17, on a one-handed fling, ending third period scoring.

The contest was one of those nice to win but tough to lose frays. Pitzer's departure in the closing minute and a half was a jolt to the JB. With him in the tussle, the Bronzers appeared to have the situation well in hand. The Pottery, on the other hand, saw two wide openings and capitalized.

Pitzer Top Star
Pitzer, who has been the star of the series despite the fact that his team was beaten, again walked off with top honors. Besides scoring 12 points, he led his series total to 39, the black-haired star served as the "main spring" defensively. "Gabby" Kendra dipped three fielders and performed well when the other side had the ball. The remaining players put their hearts into the game.

The entire Pottery lineup rates commendation for its team play in the closing minutes. Ev Laitinen, as cool as a January morning, steadied the club perfectly. Held scoreless in the first half, Guido Santangelo got in the Bronzers' half again, connecting for eight points, most of them when they counted most.

"Bus" Davis, at center, proved one of the stars. His seven points played second fiddle to his sterling defensive performance and assists on offensive spurts. Walter Hughes flashed his best form in tight spots. Shenango made good on 11 shots out of 44 tries while the Bronzers pitched 10 out of 42.

JB nabbed the series opener, 28-26, but lost last Saturday, 28-27. Last night's crowd helped to swell the gate, all of which goes to the Red Cross, to about $850 and possibly more.

The 56th renewal of the Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct will have an added value of $50,000. Last year it was worth $30,000.

FOUR BLUE JAYS ON HOLIDAY LIST

WILMINGTON, Del., March 23.—(INS)—The Phillies management backed down today from its previous statement that the state team had been signed or agreed to terms, and admitted that Ron Northey, Coaker Triplett, Jimmy Waseell and Charlie Letch has been signed all offers to date.

All four, however, worked out with the Blue Jays in yesterday's indoor sessions at the armory.

Dodds Will Run In K. Of C. Meet

Boston Pastor Tries To Stretch Record-Breaking Speed Over Two-Mile Distance

By SAM FOGG
(International News Service Sports Writer)

CLEVELAND, March 23.—Gil Dodds, the Boston pastor, will endeavor to stretch his new-found record-breaking speed over a two mile distance in the Cleveland arena Friday night when he headlines a cast of top-notch track and field stars in the annual Knights of Columbus meet.

For the first time this season, Dodds will forego the mile run in indoor track in less than two weeks and will make his first assault on the two-mile indoor record set by the same track by Greg Rice, Rice raced the distance in 8:51 in Cleveland K of C event a year ago.

The former Ohio conference champion has been able to achieve only a 4:37.7 performance in the two-mile event but his recent record-smashing feats indicate his development into one of the great stars of American track. In winning seven mile runs this season, Dodds has cut his time from 4:19.6 to the record mark of 4:04 set last Saturday in Chicago.

St. John's, DePaul Score Cage Wins

New Yorkers Kayo Kentucky, 48-45, While Chicagoans Nip Oklahomans, 41-38

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS)—St. John's of Brooklyn and DePaul were scheduled to slug it out Sunday night in the national invitation basketball tournament final as a result of their victories last night over Kentucky and Oklahoma A. M., respectively.

All four teams gave the fans a run for their money last night, each victory winning by a margin of only three points. St. John's won, 48-45 and DePaul was victorious by 41-38.

But the St. John's-Kentucky contest provided the greatest excitement when the Brooklyn boys turned on the heat in the last 30-seconds of play. With the score tied at 45-45, Wade Dym scored from the foul line shortly after a personal was chalked up against Jack Tingle of Kentucky for a collision under St. John's basket.

A lay-up shot by Don Wehr then gave the Redmen their three-point final lead. With only seconds to go, Brannum of Kentucky missed a free throw.

Farley-Yanks Report Anew

Ex-Postmaster General Reportedly Has Backing To Purchase World Champions

By MARTHA KEARNEY
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Big Jim Farley, it has been reported may soon enter Major League baseball through purchase of the New York Yankees.

Farley is said to have the backing of Lew Wentz of Ponca City, Okla., in dickering for the New York baseball club. Wentz is a prominent oil producer and gasoline manufacturer.

The former postmaster general, who is now in the railroad and drink business, attempted to buy the Yanks two years ago and was shopping around for backers to help bankroll the venture. The price then was in the neighborhood of three and a half million dollars and Farley was unable to raise the sum.

Farley has long been interested in sports and was a ball player on his home town team in Grassy Point, N. Y. years ago. Before entering politics he was chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission for eight years.

Since Col. Jacob Ruppert's death two years ago the Yanks have been run for the Ruppert estate by Edward J. Barrow who was general manager during the Colonel's regime.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Chucho Ramos, Venezuelan outfielder, reported today at Caracas that he had accepted an offer to try-out with the Cincinnati Reds at Bloomington, Ind. Should commissioner K. M. Landis restore Geo. Susce, 36, to the active list, he may help bolster Cleveland's catching staff. Buday Rosar intends to stick to his Buffalo defense job according to Manager Lou Boudreau.

Trouth having been stocked fisherman, now worry whether or not spring high water will exact its toll. Allan Behler, Turtle Creek coach left today for naval service. Gus Gardarelli, coach at Redstone, is to be examined for service next week at Greensburg. Tippy Larkin and Albe Stoltz are scheduled to fight in New York tonight. They are lightweights. Napoleon Reyes, Cuban infielder, has two hopes: 1, to make good and 2, to become an American citizen.

Tam O'Shanter golf tourney has been listed for September 3-5. Marvin Mangus of Altoona, a rope climber at State college yesterday won first place with 35 chins in a field embracing 2,000 service trainees. Climbing is a tough sport. Anyone who doubts the assertion try it. Leat Joe Orsini, former boxing coach at Pitt is in a Maryland hospital, having fractured a leg while on maneuvers at a Memphis training station.

COACH AILING
CAIRO, Ill., March 23.—(INS)—A net setback hit the Cardinal training camp today as Coach "Buzzy" Wares was stricken with diphtheria. Inoculations were ordered for the entire squad. Wares, 38 today, became ill Tuesday and the diphtheria diagnosis was given last night. His illness was described as mild.

ORTIZ ALL SET
COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 23.—(INS)—Roberto Ortiz, big Cuban outfielder, reports to the Washington Senators today to take over the job in right field. Ortiz was given an inside track to the position through a 304 batting average chalked up with Montreal last season.

Buddy Young, a Chicago high school track star who runs the hind-end in 9.7, has decided to enter Illinois.

Sports Ramblings

Springtime Paragraphs:—

The high quality of players in Section 21, principally in New Wilmington, is reflected in the WPIAL tourney record ledgers. Kenny Cathcart, who helped the "Greyhounds" snare the B title last season, heads the list with 74 points. Paul Minner, who loomed 55 markers in the '39 classic, is among the cagers occupying the upper section. Norb Borowicz, another New Wilmingtoner, topped the most valuable prize last year and Coy Craine, Wampum's ace in 1942-43, set a WPIAL record by posting 472 points. The mark, however, was erased this season....

In view of their 15 consecutive victories against no defeats, St. Mary's Big Five feels that its deserves a chance in the current struggle for the city title. Michael Donovan, in a letter to this department, writes: "We feel that we are entitled to share in the series in view of our record. Of course, you might think our team is only composed of high school boys but nevertheless, the boys are fast and I think they rate the opportunity. We'll play a three game series on any high school floor...."

Baseball here will lose another of its key men, "Dory" Guannett. The personable east sider, who slipped in a no-hitter among a flock of other noteworthy twining exhibitions, soon heads for service. He piloted the Elders, besides taking his turn on the hill during the last campaign. A pleasant-voiced red phoned a query regarding the late Charles "Horse" Gillium. The inquiry wanted to know if the Ne-Ca-Hi product ever played with the New York Celics. He certainly did and it might be added, proved one of the greatest pros in the history of the game....

Detroit's outfielders, "Doc" Cramer, can expect an offer from the Brooklyn Dodgers anyday now. Cramer recently forwarded his income tax report to the Tigers and his contract to the collector of "I. F." With a shortage of catchers prevalent, Lou Nova might do well to apply for backup post. He certainly gained all the catching experience necessary in the Louis fight.... Headline in Philly sheet: Phillies Given Command Drill on Amory Stairs.... Downstairs tactics, no doubt. The war has brought to the surface the fact that Satchel Paige, famous colored trainer, is not 40, 45 and 50 years old, as many persons have been led to believe. Recently, Paige was reclassified 1-A....

Kellett, Penn Cage Mentor, Rejected
PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—(INS)—Don Kellett, varsity basketball coach and supervisor of freshman athletics at the University of Pennsylvania today had been rejected for military service.

Kellett, 34-year-old father of two children, said he was turned down yesterday because of a stomach ailment.

PITCHER STARR WANTS TO QUIT
BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 23.—(INS)—Ray Starr, the veteran pitcher who has spent much of his baseball career bouncing around from club to club now wants to quit the Cincinnati Reds. Manager Bill McKeehn disclosed today.

Books Favoring Larkin Over Stolz

Odds 2-1; Pair Meets Tonight In 10-Round Madison Square Garden

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 23.—All Stolz, a curly-haired, sweet-looking kid out of Newark, N. J., is going to try again tonight to prove that he is not one of those pugilist parades who should be a champion but somehow always just miss reaching the goal by the margin of a terrible performance in the last round.

The old-timers along Jacob beach will tell you that he makes moves in the ring that remind them of the great masters. They tell you that he shows more things here and there during a bout that only potentially great fighter instinctively could know about.

Yet, when the chips are down he perpetually makes a bum out of himself and when he squares off tonight with Topsy Larkin, a no-nonsense Chinaman, Stolz will be the underdog in the weighing by one to two.

Larkin in the 16-rounder at Madison Square Garden, should knock out his Jersey rival on sheer class. The latter hits well but with near area show of versatility. He boxes well but with the distinct mark of mediocrity on his every move and above all, he goes into a jackknif under the influence of a tap on the chin.

LITTLE CHANGE IN DAY'S MARKET

Stocks Move In Mixed And Narrow Range During Morning

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS)—The stock market moved in a mixed and narrow range today, with most issues holding within small fractions of last night's close.

Rails, recent features, maintained a steady undertone.

Trading fell off slightly after yesterday's activity and sales ran at a million share pace.

Oil, active yesterday, were mixed and narrow, although turnover continued fairly heavy. Motors, rubbers and steels were steady, with small price changes the rule. International Telephone was active and higher in an otherwise slightly easier communications group.

Utilities were easier, while merchandising shares were firm. American Air Lines was strong in the aviation group, rising over a point on the company's acquisition of American Export Airlines.

Bonds were selectively higher in quiet dealings.

Britain Shows War Confidence

Passing Through Fifth War Winter With Excellent Morale

Editors: Leo V. Dolan, former bureau chief in London, has just returned from two years in the British capital. In the following article, last of a series, he discusses England's fifth wartime winter.

By LEO V. DOLAN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 23.—Britain is now passing through her fifth wartime winter and weathering it well.

To Americans in Britain one of the most remarkable facts of this war is that today the morale, the cheerfulness and the confidence of everybody in Britain far outstrip the morale that prevailed during the "phony war" days of the winter of 1939-40.

This war has been very, very close to the British man and woman since Britain stood alone, in mortal peril, after the collapse of France. It was that common danger that united Britain from its complacency, sent men and women alike into the services, conscripted women for war plant work, called out men and women impartially for firewatching duty, sent young boys without regard to their former station in life into the coal mines. Actually, the danger has strengthened and boosted the people's morale more than any other factor.

Prediction Fails To Materialize

High Government Official's War Casualty Prediction Recalled By Time Limit

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS)—The prediction of a high government official on December 22, 1943, that American war casualties would be tripled in three months time failed to materialize today. The 90-day period ran out Wednesday.

Speaking at a luncheon for a select group of Washington reporters, the official, close to President Roosevelt, blasted "complacency at home" and declared that casualties would mount to three times the total for the war to date during the next 90 days.

Inasmuch as war casualties at the time were reported as totaling approximately 130,000 dead, wounded, missing and prisoners of war, the government spokesman, in effect, was predicting casualties totaling upwards of half a million by March 22.

The OWI, in its most recent report, placed United States war casualties at 162,282, or a little over 30,000 greater than the total on December 22.

Although the official did not mention the war theater where he expected the heavy casualties to occur, reporters at that time gained the impression that he was referring to the opening of a second front in Europe—an operation which has not yet materialized.

Since December 22, however, American armed forces have successfully landed from the sea and established the Anzio beachhead below Rome; have occupied the Japanese-held Marshall and Admiralty Islands in the Pacific; participated in ever-increasing air bombings of Berlin and other targets in German-occupied Europe; and have carried out successful raids on Truk, the Japanese base in the Mariana and Kurile Islands.

Spring Best Time To Start Drive On Garden Pests

HARRISBURG, March 23.—Some suggestions whereby victory gardeners may reduce damage from insect pests before planting their 1944 gardens were listed today by Dr. T. L. Guyton, director, Bureau of Plant Industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Destruction of all plant refuse and early plowing or spading of the ground are recommended as being most helpful in killing insect pests before they get a chance to develop and multiply when winter weather comes, Dr. Guyton pointed out.

The victor gardener who neglected to get his crop remnants in a compost heap last fall should rake these together and burn them now. The raking of refuse should extend well into fence rows and into the neighboring permanent plantings.

This burning will do much toward destroying many pests in their overwintering forms. Among them we find the European corn borer, the Mexican bean beetle, several different flea beetles, the cucumber beetle, squash bug and others, including a considerable number of other important pests. The destruction of this refuse will also destroy overwintering diseases which have established themselves on the plants last year.

Early plowing or spading of the garden will help in the control of some pests such as the horn worm which attacks tomatoes, and the pickle worm which gets into squash and cucumber vines. To be effective, this early plowing and spading should be done in time for the soil to be frozen before the planting season comes.

Tree Owners Urged To Start Clean-Up

HARRISBURG, March 23.—Owners of shade, ornamental and fruit trees will materially reduce damage from insect pests if they will start their own clean-up campaign before Spring, the Bureau of Plant Industry in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture declared in a statement issued today.

Chief among the pests that can be stopped at this season of the year is the overwintering form of the bagworm, seen in cocoon-like bags which are suspended from the smaller branches with tough strands of silk. Many of these bags contain eggs and should be removed and burned.

Other pests are found in the egg stage at this season of the year. The apple tree tent caterpillar forms characteristic egg masses about small twigs which are easy to see when the leaves are off the tree. The pest is partial to apple and wild cherry.

The white-marked tussock moth lays its eggs in a mass on three trunks and buildings. They are white at first but soon soil to a color not unlike the bark. This insect is found on several species of shade trees.

The removal and destruction by burning of these overwintering egg masses will be a great help toward protecting shade and ornamental trees from defoliation this coming season.

AUTO INDUSTRY POOLS RESOURCES

Results Of Concentrating On Outguessing Enemy Shown In Production

By CYRIL LINDROTH
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

DETROIT—(INS)—The war put an end—temporarily—to competitive enterprise within the automobile industry, but it has been no handicap to the competitive spirit which has always identified the business.

The auto men who met shortly after Pearl Harbor and agreed to pool information and engage in co-operative fact-finding, today are concentrating on trying to outguess the best minds of the enemy—and not doing so badly at it either.

Uncle Sam Benefits
Principal beneficiary of this new spirit is Uncle Sam, the industry's sole customer, and the results are visible in terms of armored divisions thundering against enemy strongholds, PT boats smashing enemy invasion fleets and airplanes cascading death and destruction across hostile areas of three continents.

On the financial side, the "co-operative rivalry" has resulted in savings estimated at more than two billion dollars in price reductions made possible by shared techniques and manufacturing efficiencies.

One company, for instance, saved 15 million dollars of the taxpayers' money in the manufacture of gun carriages and aircraft cannon.

Reduce Cost of Guns
Another reduced by half the cost of anti-aircraft guns, and a third cut 37 per cent from the cost of airplane wings.

The automobile man, with 42 years of production and 86 million vehicles behind them, see in the new combination a simple and logical combination of calculation of methods and engineering for the common good. They took in stride the almost over-night conversion from peace-time manufacturing to production of 30 billion dollars in war work.

It was an exacting and difficult task, but they point out, "no manufacturing objective is insurmountable."

When recently the army needed sleds for snow-bound battlefields, it turned to automobile companies which had available a reservoir of wood-working specialists from the days when bodies were made of wood.

Reduce Packing Space
Manufacture of 290-pound sleds posed a unique production problem but crews soon developed specialists in the art of typing rawhide knots, used in place of bolts, and time on the assembly line was reduced by half.

One auto company not long ago made available new designs which reduced by 55 per cent the measurements of disassembled truck packing crates. Whereas previously each chassis occupied 878 cubic feet of vital space in the hold of transports today the same unit has been compressed into 369 cubic feet.

All this in the name of victory. But when peace comes to the rest of the world, "war" within the industry will be resumed. The competitive spirit will remain but as competitive enterprise—with the public still the benefactor.

Beverage Bottles Are Badly Needed

Estimate Five Hundred Million Are Held In American Homes Now

WASHINGTON—(INS)—More than a million gross of carbonated beverage bottles will be shipped overseas by the army in 1944. That's approximately 52,000,000 bottles.

The quartermaster corps, U. S. Army, is authority for these figures. They were revealed coincident with the announcement of a nationwide campaign to get some 500,000,000 "slack" bottles into circulation.

Should Return Bottles
The campaign is sponsored by milk, carbonated beverage and beer interests and is endorsed by the War Production Board. E. T. Tomiska, director of the containers division, WPB, has announced that glass container restrictions will not be eased in the near future.

Therefore, sponsors of the campaign say, all re-usable bottles should be returned to the point of purchase without delay, to assure an adequate supply of beverages. J. P. Lewis, president of the Owens-Illinois Glass Company said:

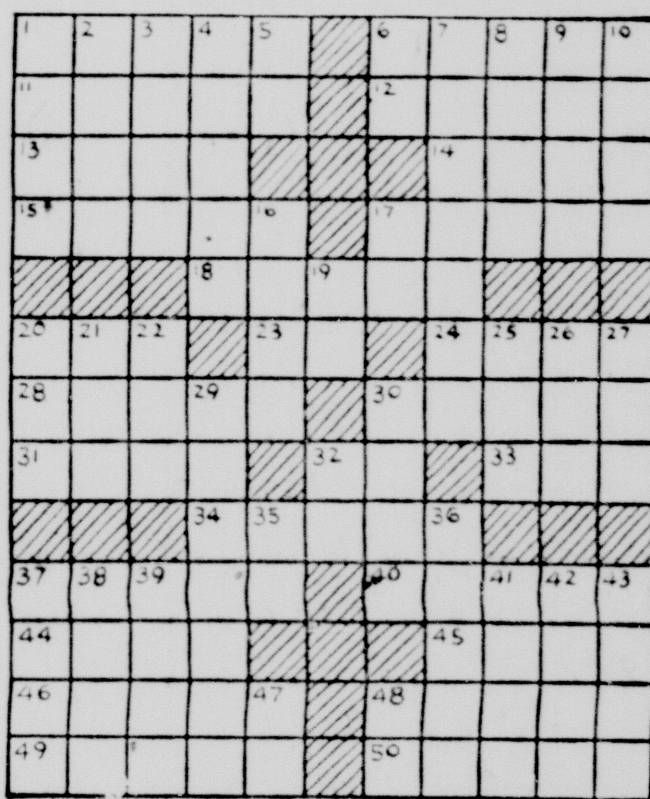

"Because the demand for bottles and other containers for our fighters has increased so sharply, the co-operation of every householder is needed in the coming months in hastening the return of deposit bottles used for milk, carbonated beverages and beer. Millions of bottles are going overseas to our armed forces. Those do not come back. Every deposit bottle which is kept in action trips from store to home and back again, releases another bottle for action with our fighters overseas."

Many Needs for Glass
Glass companies, the Quartermaster Corps of the U. S. Army estimates, will export approximately a million gross bottles for insect repellents and water purifying tablets this year. Glass is also needed for electronic and X-ray tubes, insulating materials and other products for the army and navy.

Glass production at present is 70 per cent greater than in peace-time years.

Fateful Year Of U. S. History Says Secretary Stimson

(BULLETIN)
WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS)—Termining 1944 the "fateful year of our country's history," Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson today urged the continuation of lend-lease in order to save American lives as well as reduce the cost of war.

Stimson made the statement in testifying before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, joined by other administrative leaders in recommending extension of the lend-lease act for another year.

"I believe that a decision not to extend this legislation would prolong the war and increase the cost to our people in lives and dollars," the war department chief said. "We are now in the full passage of war where the full accumulation of our strength must be thrown against the enemy and our continuity of effort maintained."

PLANT MAKES RECORD
PITTSBURGH, March 3.—(INS)—Officials of the 200-acre synthetic rubber chemical plant in Beaver county, boasted today that Kobuto produced more Butadiene during January any other in the country. Butadiene production of the plant was more than 150 per cent of the plant's rated capacity of 80,000 tons per year, said Dan M. Ruge, vice president of Koppers United company. Butadiene division which operates the plant for the rubber reserve company.

Orange and lemon rinds should be used in cooking, as they are high in vitamin C. In making candied peel or sweet marmalade, say government experts, in which the peel is parboiled and the water then discarded, some of the vitamin C is lost. Peel may be sliced or grated and added with no previous cooking to applesauce, to spreads of various kinds, puddings and even to quick breads.

TIMBER WOLF ONLY DOG, GAME WARDEN RESIGNS HIS JOB

UNION CITY, N. J., Mar. 3.—(INS)—A deputy game warden who reported that a timber wolf was roaming the New Jersey swampland last week tendered his resignation today when the "wolf" turned out to be a dog. The warden, William Kuhn, said Harry M. Armstrong, state fish and game commissioner, had "insulted" his intelligence. Kuhn said Armstrong authorized publication of a picture of a doxie police dog as the "wolf" when in reality the "wolf" was a cross between a Siberian husky and a German shepherd and looked "very much like a wolf."

Jack Favored To Retain Lightweight Title Tonight

Bob Montgomery Is 2 To 1 Underdog

Madison Square Garden 15-Rounder Stirring Interest; Beau Can Set Winning Mark.

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 3.—Tonight is the night for Beau Jack, the night when he will defend his New York commission lightweight championship against Bob Montgomery as a possible starter toward a Madison Square Garden record. He can become the first headliner to fight and win three times in a single month there in the big arena. There is one minor hitch to the proceedings. He has to best Montgomery.

Despite considerable support in behalf of the latter Beau Jack was favored at 2 to 1 today to turn back his man in this 15-rounder and thus qualify for the undisputed title tussle with Sammy Angott, National Boxing Association champion, on March 31. The winner tonight gets the big final shot. Meanwhile, win loss or draw, Beau Jack will take on Al "Bumby" Davis March 17.

This ambitious program was arranged by his handlers with an eye on the draft board. By mid-April Beau Jack is supposed to be in the service and they left nothing undone to get all the gate receipts out of his fan hide that the traffic would bear.

Faces Tough Road
Hence they have given him the toughest month's work ever faced by a champion, even a champion in times like these when the competition is scarce. Each fight is a potential loss on the basis of past performances and each carries extra importance in that he defends his own crown against Montgomery, takes on a hard-hitting welterweight in Davis, then goes after the undisputed world title with Angott. It doesn't make sense.

Coming back a little further, he and Montgomery have split a pair of decisions to exchange the championship, indicating that the latter is something less than a setup for the Beau's particularly style of milling.

The odds, therefore, on Beau Jack tonight seem to be based on the knockout he suffered recently against Davis, rather than on the comparative ease or lack of it to be shown tonight. Some insist that Montgomery can't come back off that interlude among the birds subsequent to the landing of Davis' left hook, and he was the same fighter he was before. Not in this sort of time after having encountered that punch.

It should be a whale of a scrap between the two little Negroes who have dominated the lightweight situation in the east of late, with only Angott as a real contender for top honors, 1 to 1 Montgomery.

Once around the sports beat:—

Thanks to the Kibitzer, official organ of the Cosmo club, I'm able to report that Harry "Chick" Cohen, a former Westminster grid hand, is in Hawaii. The winter avenue soldier does a lot of basebaling on the side. Also that Lt. Herkie Baltimore, who jumped from Y. M. C. A. basketball here to Penn State's varsity, is in action in tank driving at night. The tall localie is stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky. The two sheet paper is edited by Dr. Henry Sloan, a red-hot sports bug . . .

Pie, Ralph "Rajah" Audino, in an interesting letter inked from Camp Swift, Texas, writes that his eyes nearly popped out recently while watching a newsreel depicting the capture of Tawawa. "Boy what a thrill to see 'Bill' Kelly, of dear old New Castle, piloting the first plane to land on the island," the Arlington avenue athlete states. Audino also reveals that Al Ficatta, the ex-Ne-Ca-Hi and John Carroll university grid ace from Mahoningtown, Tony "Brother" Russo, of south side, and Guy Mazzocco, of the Seventh ward, all bunk at Camp Swift . . .

Gedio Filigenzi, who did a little biffing in the amateur ranks, has been medically discharged from the U. S. Army, according to word received by this pencil pusher. Petty Officer Joe Audino, former New Castle high line star, is on duty in the southwest Pacific. He's a radianon third class. "To Chuck" Freeman, Clyde Jeffrey and C. Davis share the world's 100-yard dash record approved by the I. A. A. F. The time: 9.4 seconds . . .

Addenda:—Before shoving off for Camp Gruber, Oklahoma, Cpl. Anthony "Cab" Petrucci gave us a watch-after-the-war tip. The south sider, whose knowledge of baseball is infinite, was telling about a one Sgt. Peter Gebrian, of Bayonne, N. J., and a soldier friend stationed at C. G. The 20-year-old twirler concluded the 1943 season with 16 victories and only four losses. He pegged 18 complete games and finished with an earned run average of 2.39 in 192 innings. He marked up 165 strikeouts, yielded 60 bases on balls and was tipped for 170 blinks. His "e. r. a." set a new Pony League record. Besides, he hit 308. The Pirates grabbed him from Hornell shortly before he donned khaki five months ago . . .

Beau Jack is rated an 8 to 5 favorite to retain his New York version of the lightweight title tonight in his meeting with Bob Montgomery. By ring time, the odds probably will soar to 2 to 1 in an "informal" manner, meaning such "warline" elevens as Harvard and Boston. In about another week, major league teams, what's left of 'em, start arriving at training camps. The season opener's are only 45 days away . . .

Fair Or Foul

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 3.—Betting commissioners have established Pukka Gin as the number one choice for the Kentucky Derby at odds of 6 to 1 in the winter book—a ridiculous figure any way you look at it.

The bet is about five to one that no given entry will even reach the post at this time of the year.

Furthermore in my own personal slightly lopsided and certainly unreliable horse book there are at least two or three others in there who figure over Pukka Gin for the May 6 classic.

I've got a ven for Durazna—a big, strong filly that looks as though she might duplicate that 1915 derby when Regrest came bounding down in front to be the first and last filly ever to win the run for the roses.

But if it isn't a filly, then how about a colt like Platter.

Platter Looks Good
Mr. Frank G. Menke, drum-beater for Churchill Downs, who is a notorious wrong guesser, insists that Platter looks like a colt that can win the big end of the $75,000 added purse.

Before going into that it might be pointed out that Pukka Gin is a 6 to 1 favorite for the derby, with Platter second at 8 to 1; then comes Durazna, Miss Keenland and Occupy at 12 to 1 followed by Lucky Draw, Wavavoke, Royal Prince, Director J. E. and Bojillions at 15 to 1.

Speaking of Platter, the second choice in the winter books, Mr. Menke goes on to say as follows: "Platter, owned by George D. Widener, is chosen by many handi-cappers to win route races like the Kentucky Derby, on May 6th, and other distance classics which follow, mainly because he demonstrated stamina as a 2 year old, and an apparent liking for the long races.

This son of Pilate—Let's Dine, the latter a descendant of Jack-High, once the holder of the American record for one mile could not win a race until his sixth start.

Fancied By Many
"Yet this is the horse that many think capable of winning a race like the Kentucky Derby. Based on what? Well, the contention is based on his final two races in 1943. He won them both. One was the mile and a sixteenth Pimlico Futurity, run in the mud, and the other was the Walden Stakes, also a mile and a sixteenth. In both races, he came from far back at the stretch turn and ran over his fields.

"The colt has wintered well. He on the small side—just about 15 hands (5 feet) in height, and weighs about 1,000 pounds. His trainer, W. F. Mulholland, reports that he is coming along nicely in preliminary training."

SMALL BUT MIGHTY
Eddie Bray of Illinois was the smallest back in the Big Ten. Bill Daley of Michigan was about the biggest. So they tied at 7.1 yards average for each time they carried the ball.

LOUISVILLE RAIDED
The Baltimore Orioles are raiding Louisville baseball diamonds. They have seven Louisville youngsters under contract.

WEISS, GRID STAR,

IS NAVY BOUND

MILWAUKEE, March 3.—(INS)—Howard W. Weiss, former star of the professional and collegiate gridrons, was cleaning up his business affairs today preparatory to reporting at Fort Schuyler, N. Y., March 28, for active duty in the navy.

Weiss, who played fullback at Wisconsin three years and then with the Detroit Lions in 1939-40, was sworn in as an ensign yesterday.

Hialeah Season

Ends Saturday

MIAMI, Fla., March 3.—(INS)—Hialeah Park's winter race meeting comes to a close tomorrow with the famed $25,000 Widener handicap at a mile and a quarter as the feature event.

Thirty-four thoroughbreds were eligible for the rich stake, but only seven were expected to go to the post. These were Sun Again, Mariage, Alques, Four Freedoms, Eurasian, Bolingbroke and First Fiddle.

Four of these were recent winners in important races. Sun Again, took the McLennen handicap at Hialeah several weeks ago. Four Freedoms was winner of the Palm Beach Handicap at Hialeah.

Mariage, which developed from a $1,400 claimer to a threat in almost any competition, captured the New Orleans handicap at Fair Grounds two weeks ago. First Fiddle won a stake race in New Orleans in December.

Phils-A's To Raise

Price Of Tickets

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—(INS)—The Quaker City's big league baseball clubs, the A's and the Phils, joined with the Pittsburgh Pirates today in boosting prices for tickets to all games this year.

The Phils, announced, their prices for the 1944 season as: Bleacher seats, 65 cents—an increase of eight cents; general admission to grandstand seats, $1.25—an eleven-cent boost; box seats, $2.00—an increase of 29 cents.

The Athletics asserted they will adjust their prices shortly to meet the additional 10 per cent federal amusement tax which becomes effective April 1.

Britain Shows War Confidence

Passing Through Fifth War Winter With Excellent Morale

(Editor's: Leo V. Dolan, former bureau chief in London, has just returned from two years in the British capital. In the following article, last of a series, he discusses England's fifth wartime winter.)

By LEO V. DOLAN
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 23.—Britain is now passing through her fifth wartime winter and weathering it well.

To Americans in Britain one of the most remarkable facts of this war is that today the morale, the cheerfulness and the confidence of everybody in Britain far outstrip the morale that prevailed during the "phony war" days of the winter of 1939-40.

This war has been very, very close to the British man and woman since Britain stood alone, in moral peril, after the collapse of France. It was that common danger that joined Britain from its complacency. Sent men and women alike into the services, conscripted women for war plant work, called out men and women impartially for firewatching duty, sent young boys without regard to their former station in life into the coal mines. Actually, the danger has strengthened and boosted the people's morale more than any other factor.

Prediction Fails To Materialize

High Government Official's War Casualty Prediction Recalled By Time Limit

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(INS)—The prediction of a high government official on December 22, 1943, that American war casualties would be tripled in three months time failed to materialize today. The 90-day period ran out Wednesday.

Speaking at a luncheon for a select group of Washington reporters, the official, close to President Roosevelt, blasted "complacency at home" and declared that casualties would mount to three times the total for the war to date during the next 90 days.

Inasmuch as war casualties at the time were reported as totaling approximately 130,000 dead, wounded, missing and prisoners of war, the government spokesman, in effect, was predicting casualties totalling upwards of half a million by March 22.

The OWI, in its most recent report, placed United States war casualties at 162,282, or a little over 30,000 greater than the total on December 22.

Although the official did not mention the war theater where he expected the heavy casualties to occur, reporters at that time gained the impression that he was referring to the opening of a second front in Europe—an operation which has not yet materialized.

Since December 22, however, American armed forces have successfully landed from the sea and established the Anzio beachhead below Rome; have occupied the Japanese-held Marshall and Admiralty Islands in the Pacific; participated in ever-increasing air bombings of Berlin and other targets in German-occupied Europe; and have carried out successful raids on Truk, the Japanese bases in the Mariana and Kurile Islands.

Spring Best Time To Start Drive On Garden Pests

HARRISBURG, March 23.—Some suggestions whereby victory gardeners may reduce damage from insect pests before planting their 1944 gardens were listed today by Dr. T. L. Guyton, director, Bureau of Plant Industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Destruction of all plant refuse and early plowing or spading of the ground are recommended as being most helpful in killing insect pests before they get a chance to develop and multiply when warmer weather comes, Dr. Guyton points out.

The victor gardener who neglected to get his crop remnants in a compost heap last fall should rake these together and burn them now. The raking of refuse should extend well into fence rows and into the neighboring permanent plantings.

This burning will do much toward destroying many pests in their overwintering forms. Among them we find the European corn borer, the Mexican bean beetle, several different flea beetles, the cucumber beetle, squash bug and others, including a considerable number of other important pests. The destruction of this refuse will also destroy overwintering diseases which have established themselves on the plants last year.

Early plowing or spading of the garden will help in the control of some pests such as the horn worm which attacks tomatoes, and the pickle worm which gets into squash and cucumber vines. To be effective, this early plowing and spading should be done in time for the soil to be frozen before the planting season comes.

Tree Owners Urged To Start Clean-Up

HARRISBURG, March 23.—Owners of shade, ornamental and fruit trees will materially reduce damage from insect pests if they will start their own clean-up campaign before Spring, the Bureau of Plant Industry in the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture declared in a statement issued today.

Chief among the pests that can be stopped at this season of the year is the overwintering form of the bagworm, seen in cocoon-like bags which are suspended from the smaller branches with tough strands of silk. Many of these bags contain eggs and should be removed and burned.

Other pests are found in the egg stage at this season of the year. The apple tree tent caterpillar forms characteristic egg masses about small twigs which are easy to see when the leaves are off the tree. The pest is partial to apple and wild cherry.

The white-marked tussock moth lays its eggs in a mass on three trunks and outbuildings. They are white at first but soon soil to a color not unlike the bark. This insect is found on several species of shade trees.

The removal and destruction by burning of these overwintering egg masses will be a great help toward protecting shade and ornamental trees from defoliation this coming season.

Discovered in 1701 in the Pargana of India, the Regent Diamond has survived many stirring incidents. Found by a slave who snatched his way to hide this 410-carat monster, it passed into the possession of Sir Thomas Pitt whose very life was often attempted. Hidden in the French Revolution, it was later found buried in a ditch on the Avenue des Champs-Elysees, in Paris, and later worn by Napoleon in his sword belt. In recent years, the Regent was the prize possession of the French Government and was given the honored position at the Louvre in Paris.

Catholic Churches Will Observe Lent

Lent, a penitential season, and one of the most solemn, and most holy seasons of the liturgical year begins this year, on Ash Wednesday, February 23, in all the Roman Catholic churches of the Latin rite, and its observance effects all the faithful the world over.

With the four Sundays of Lent and Passion and Palm Sunday deducted, there are only 36 penitential days in the six complete weeks of Lent, so that in order to obtain the full number of 40 days, the four days preceding the first Sunday of Lent are added, thereby making the Lenten season begin on a Wednesday.

In Two Parts

Lent divided itself into two parts. The first commences on Ash Wednesday and ends on Passion Sunday. The second and more solemn part extends from Passion Sunday until noon of Holy Saturday, the end of Lent. These two weeks, termed "the great fortnight," are called Passion time. The many changes in the liturgy in Lent serve to show the mind of church that the spirit of penance has become more intense in this season. The solemnization of marriage is forbidden. The liturgical color is purple, the sign of penitence. Altars remain bare of flowers and decorations. Except for the fourth Sunday in Lent, and before the Gloria on Holy Saturday, the organ is silent, nor is any musical accompaniment allowed unless necessary to support the singing. Most pronounced, however, are the changes in the celebration of the Lenten mass. Purple vestments are used. The Gloria and Alleluia are suppressed. Special prefaces are said one for the first part of Lent, another for Passion time. A prayer is added after the post-communion oration called the "Prayer Over the People," beginning with this call to humility: "Bow down your heads before God."

40-Day Fast

That Lent should be a 40-day fast seems to have been influenced by the Biblical examples of Moses, Elias and most particularly, Our Lord. Moses fasted for days on Mt. Sinai in the desert; Elias on Mt. Horeb and Our Lord prepared for His public ministry by fasting 40 days in the desert.

Though the spirit of Lent has remained always one of penance through prayer and fasting, the severity of the observance of the Lenten fast has suffered its changes. Regardless of how well one is capable to observe the externals of the Lenten penance, the spirit of Lent still persists to remind one of the necessity of penance for sin to make effective in the sinner the work of the redemption.

This year due to the difficulties arising from war regulations the Lenten rules for Catholic have been somewhat modified and the new regulations that follow are those that apply to the diocese of Pittsburgh, issued as such by Hugh C. Boyle, D.D. Bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese.

Year's Regulations

"The faithful of the Diocese of Pittsburgh are hereby dispensed from the Lenten fast. The law of abstinence continues to bind. The use of flesh meat is forbidden on Wednesdays and Fridays in Lent on Ember Days and until noon on Holy Saturday, except where it is permitted by virtue of the special indulgent which follows:

"By virtue of an indulgent of the Holy See, working people engaged at hard labor are permitted, for a term of years, the use of flesh meat at every meal on days of abstinence throughout the year, except all Fridays, the Vigil of Christmas and Ash Wednesday, and until noon on Holy Saturday. This concession is made to persons engaged at hard labor for every meal, and for the principal meal to the members of their families, even though not employed at hard labor. Members of the household in the home of working people engaged at hard labor who are not exempt from the law of abstinence on account of hard labor may use meat once a day, that is, at the principal meal, on the days on which its use is allowed by this indulgent. Those who make use of the above indulgent are admonished to perform other works of penance in place of the abstinence from which they are dispensed.

Men serving in the army or navy are allowed meat on all days of the year, except the Vigil of Christmas, Ash Wednesday, Good Friday and the forenoon of Holy Saturday. All types of entertainment under parish auspices or under the auspices of a Catholic Society of any sort, are prohibited during the Lenten season. The praiseworthy custom of abstaining from intoxicating drink, in honor of the Sacred Thirst of Our Lord is recommended as a means of penance, and merit during the holy season of Lent.

If there are special instructions and sermons during Lent, the time for making Easter Communion in this diocese will date from the First Sunday in Lent, February 27, and continue to Trinity Sunday, inclusive.

Catholic churches of this city start the observance of the Lenten season on Wednesday, and throughout the season, special services including sermons, stations of the cross, are held.

AIR WARFARE AGAINST NAZIS ONLY STARTING

lengthy report, received by the house with mingled cheers and grim recognition of his admonitions that a long and costly struggle lies ahead.

1—The Anglo-American air war against Germany will be continued and intensified "and what the experiences of Germany will be when her fighter defense has been almost completely eliminated has yet to be seen."

2—Allied bombing of Germany already is absorbing the efforts of 3,000,000 Germans and has drawn four-fifths of the German fighter force to the western front—a great contribution to the battle of Russia. Suggestions that allied air attacks should cease or be modified for any reason "will not be accepted by governments of the allied powers."

3—Allied progress in Italy has been slow because of unusual weather coupled with the fact Germany "decided to make extreme exertions for retention of Rome." A major amphibious or flanking movement on either western or eastern seacoasts of Italy, he said, depends upon the utilization of "larger" allied forces than those now in Italy and upon its coordination in proper manner with the "general allied program."

4—The friendship among Great Britain, the United States and Soviet Russia "has not cooled," and the U. S. S. R. has received guarantees of protection against any future assault from the west.

5—Nazi Germany is making extensive preparations in France for new attacks upon Britain by pilotless aircraft or rocket bombs or both, "but we are striking at evidence of this preparation whenever weather is suitable."

Air Offensive Just Beginning

The chief message of Churchill throughout his long report was an implied warning to Germany that the vast air offensive to date is just the beginning. American and British raids will mount in scope and intensity as the spring and summer progress, he said, and added:

"The U. S. bomber force in Britain now begins to surpass our own and will soon be substantially greater still. I rejoice to say."

"In four recent British and American raids over 9,000 tons of bombs have been dropped, constituting the most violent attack yet made on Germany. Spring and summer will see a vast increase in these attacks. The whole of this air offensive constitutes the foundations on which our plans for overseas invasion are based."

"The scale of attack which will be reached is far beyond the dimensions of anything yet employed or imagined."

But in addition, Churchill skipped no major point of interest or an issue. He personally raised the question of Poland's status with Marshal Joseph Stalin at Teheran, the prime minister said, emphasizing that Poland held a prime place in the thoughts of the British government and parliament.

Liberation of Poland was presently achieved by the Russian Armies after they have suffered millions of casualties," Churchill said.

"I cannot feel that Russian demands for reassurance of her western frontiers goes beyond the limits of what is reasonable or just. Stalin and I agreed upon the need for Poland to obtain compensation at the expense of Germany both in the north and west."

"I have intense sympathy with Poland. I also have sympathy with the Russian standpoint."

Returns To Burdens

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Roosevelt is about to pick up again the duties of what must certainly be the most burdensome office in the world.

He is concluding a brief rest which was interrupted by the revolt of Senator Barkley.

FDR's return to the crushing grind of his office happens to coincide with the anniversary of his inauguration 11 years ago. No man has ever occupied the White House for so long. The term in office of no other President, with the exception of Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson, has been so crowded with events. One crisis has followed on another.

Until recently, the marvel has been the way in which the President stood up to his load. There have been periods of mental depression, when he seemed irritable and at a loss. But each time he snapped back. Each time he returned to the problems of the day with fresh imagination and creativity.

Under Handicap

The war years have put him under a grave handicap. Before 1940, he got "away from it all" at regular intervals. Occasionally fishing trips gave him the kind of relaxation he so badly needs. For a week or two, the never-ending demands ceased. There were no telephones, no appointments list.

Even more important were the trips the President made through the country. He liked nothing better than to travel at the end of a special train, whether in a campaign year or in a casual swing across the country that might be the "non-political" preface to a campaign.

From the crowds that came to him from the people who climbed on and off his train, the President got a sense of renewal. It was a chance to find out what the ordinary American was thinking and feeling.

The barriers of the White House were down. A heckler from the crowd at the rear of the train could speak his mind, or a plain-talking politician, admitted to the President's car, could tell him what the people in that section were thinking about.

Not The Same

While FDR has made two, so-called inspection trips that have taken him through the country since 1939, they could not, in the very nature of things, be the same. In wartime, the Secret Service enforces—necessarily—many precautions. The old freedom is gone.

Even a rest is difficult. For the past ten days, Roosevelt has been trying to get a chance to think—to rusticate, free of the million claims of an impossible office. But his days have been broken into by the demands of war.

He is more alone today than he ever has been. Of the old White House crowd, only Stephen Early, his press secretary, remains. The others have fallen victim to the killing pace of the past decade. His closest friend, Harry Hopkins, for some time to come, may be prevented by illness from serving as "the boss's" right hand.

In many ways, the outlook this March 4 is as critical as that of 11 years ago. The risks are greater and so are the stakes.

Started At 31 Years

Roosevelt was 31 on that blustery March day 11 years ago. He looked much younger. He spoke with eager confidence to a nation that had turned to him for some way out of the economic ruin which had come under Herbert Hoover. And he was ready with potent magic to start the wheels of industry turning again.

Today he is about to become the center of a political fiasco as bitter as any this country has ever seen. Over the fourth-term issue, all the accumulated hatreds of the Roosevelt decade will boil up. That is bound to be so, in spite of the fact that we're in the midst of the biggest war in our history.

Repetition Of 1940

The political course Roosevelt will follow in coming months is fairly clear. It will be a repetition of 1940. As commander-in-chief, he will ignore politics. There will be no time for politics. And it is as commander-in-chief that he would be re-elected to a fourth term.

In many ways, this indirect appeal is calculated to stir up more animosity than a frank, old-fashioned campaign. It gives his enemies a sense of frustration. It makes him seem invulnerable.

But one thing is terribly important to remember. That is that, under our political system, Roosevelt will be President until next January. He is the responsibility in these critical and terrible months. That should be a sobering thought for even professional Roosevelt-haters.

What People Say

WASHINGTON—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., announces fourth war loan oversubscribed by two billion 730 million dollars; "From the very beginning, the voluntary system of bond buying—the American way—has proved successful."

LONDON—Sir James Grigg, British war minister: "Sooner or later Germany must crack, but at the present time she is fighting with the utmost resolution and—except possibly where Hitler's intuition has been at work—with consummate skill."

WASHINGTON—Edward Stettinius, Jr., acting secretary of state: "Victory is certain as long as we remain united. The enemy's chief hope is to divide us from our British, Soviet and Chinese allies."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:35. Sun rises tomorrow, 7:30.

If there's a manpower shortage, what about using the thousands of bored soldiers who seem stuck in deserted camps for the duration?

Statesmen foresee the distant effect of their policies; politicians never see beyond the next election.

Note on abuse of power: One man who hated Wilson made this war possible by preventing a league to end warfare.

Americanism: Grumbling because canned stuff is scarce; hundreds of carloads of fresh fruit and vegetables spoiling on sidetracks before they can be sold.

The people came across with fourteen billion. Now give them a square deal by not wasting their hard-earned money.

Paraphrasing: "Man does not live by brown coupons alone."

Brotherhood is a wonderful theory.

Suggested theme song for those leaving the rationing board, "I Have Plenty of Nothing."

New Castle is not so religious, but the streets are becoming holier.

BONE ROAST

Housewife: "I wonder if you would be so kind as to weigh this package for me?"

Butcher: "Why, certainly. It weighs exactly three and a quarter pounds."

Housewife: "Thank you. It contains the bones you sent me in that four-pound roast yesterday."

Being forced to take a rest often is so easy.

There are few things that we know well.

This war has taught a lot of people how precious food is.

A couple of hard drinks usually makes a couple soft and mushy.

Six men were sitting at a table in a service club when a member had the cigars passed on account of a new boy in his family. All six men took cigars and only one was a smoker, so they all gave their cigars to him.

Doing the things we should do now will make it easier for us after the war is over.

Watch the red lights and live longer.

One nice thing about woman war workers is that when the war is over they can go back doing their housework.

It is claimed that new automobiles will cost 25 per cent more after the war is over.

The true test of brotherhood is to watch another man's property burning and not regard it as entertainment.

Juvenile delinquents: Kids full of energy and without a good way to work it off.

Still, many family fights develop only because anything seems better than boredom.

Our present trouble is that too many people think the fight is about over because the ring is built.

"I want my kids to have an easier time than I had" really means: "I want my kids to be softer than I am."

The Army must have taken the pick. Crime hasn't decreased since they were taken out of circulation.

The final proof of chivalry is to be full of bullet holes and tell the cops your wife did it accidentally.

Sex problem: How to protect the purity of women while preserving their equal right to be naughty.

A "sophisticated" magazine is one that gets its laughs by means of sacrilege or naughtiness.

The Tax Mess

WASHINGTON, March 4. THERE IS at the moment—particularly among the professional liberals—considerable loud weeping about the effect of the rift between Congress and the President over the question of taxes. They insist that it has diminished national unity; they fear it will affect the conduct of the war; they think it should not be talked about any more.

ALARM ALONG these lines seems unfounded. So far as "national unity" in domestic affairs is concerned, there has not been national unity for a long time. And that is a fortunate thing. For example, had national unity been achieved by acquiescence in Mr. Roosevelt's domestic policies, or lack of policies, the effect would have been disastrous. To give but two instances, consider what would have happened had the President's insistence upon a dual-headed war production board, with "coequal power," or his belief that it was necessary to control their wages or food prices to avert inflation, been accepted. Consider the situation if there had been national unity about those things.

ONLY BY continual pounding was Mr. Roosevelt forced to abandon those unsound principles and take the direction indicated by experience and common sense. There has not been national unity on domestic issues since we entered the war. The national interests have not suffered because of that fact—they have profited. As to the conduct of the war—no one need be apprehensive of the effect of the tax breach on that. Conduct of the war is in the hands of our competent military and naval authorities. It will continue in their hands regardless of the tax quarrel and regardless of who is elected President in November. And they will get the support to which they are entitled.

IF THE recent explosion can be used to center public attention upon the whole tax business it will be beneficial. For it is really a shocking mess. The men who know most about it are the most appalled. They know it isn't merely that the matter of taxes is incredibly confused and complicated, bound up in immense quantities of red tape, but that there has not been—and there is not now—upon the part of either executive or legislative branch, any such thing as a sound and sensible tax policy. Each accuses the other of demagoguery and playing politics with this important problem. Both are guilty. Because this is an election year, and because of the labor-union opposition, each has shied away from the general sales tax without which it is clearly impossible to enlarge the revenues from taxation or to drain off the vast surplus wealth in the hands of lower-bracket workers, which, Secretary Morgenthau himself has said constitutes the real inflation menace.

IN ADDITION, the administration of taxes in the Treasury is so ineffectual and inadequate that there is some concern lest a breakdown occur. The organization is just not equal to the immensely increased burdens it now has to bear. Many thousands of tax cases are awaiting long-delayed settlement. The situation is such that quick action on anything is getting very difficult. And it isn't getting better—it is getting worse. If the people, generally, fully understood the incompetency with which taxes are being dealt with, there might be a protest of such volume as to force a change in the attitude of both President and Congress. Unless there is a change, the prospect is pretty black. It has been pointed out to the President by friendly critics that boring as the subject is to him, he should give it his full personal attention, put politics out of his mind and supply real leadership on this immensely vital matter.

HE HAS been strongly urged to reorganize the Treasury, replace the incompetents with competent, take the lead in simplification and evolve a firm, realistic fiscal policy. With more confidence in Treasury efficiency and in the sincerity of the President, the temptation and the excuse for Congress to play politics would be greatly lessened. A President with a sound tax policy, because that body can be forced to co-operate. The reason Mr. Roosevelt has not had co-operation is because he has no policy himself, and his Secretary of the Treasury submits proposals which contradict his own words.

IT IS possible that the present rift on taxes, plus the absurdly inadequate legislation may arouse an acute public awareness of the grave national peril involved in the blind fiscal drifting in which we are engaged, with no one willing to face realities either as to taxes or debt. But the public will never be sufficiently aroused if we stop talking and wringing about it for fear it may hurt the President's prestige abroad or disturb national unity at home. Better to do both of those things than continue to move steadily toward complete financial chaos, which is exactly what we are doing.

Political Washington In Thoughtful Mood
New Story About Franklin, Winston, Joe Rigid News Censorship Now Being Lifted

By HELEN ESSARY

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 4.—This town, which always seems different but is everlastingly the same, is moping a little as the Potomac park crocuses announce spring. Political Washington is happy over the victories at Truk and the successful bombings of Germany. Military Washington also nods sagely and says: "It's time we began to get somewhere in this war when you think of the men, equipment and money we are expending in the fight."

Political Washington wears a different mood. Its face is almost too obviously set in a company smile as the next election time approaches. Many office holders are wondering how much longer they will be here.

"Do you like me?" the wife of a WPB chairman asked an old-time Washingtonian. "You do?" "Well, better see a lot of me, honey. By this time next year we will be some place else. And there will be a new crop of people for you to have fun with."

And the old-time Washingtonian with a pretty strong opinion of long living in the bubbling capital, replied quite calmly: "Yes, I suppose you will be leaving. But it's been nice knowing you, dear."

New Dealer Complaints

I have a letter from an Abington, Va., correspondent. . . .

"This is probably unwise of me to write you, so please don't use my name. I'm a government employee. New Deal kind, but I simply can't get the idea out of my head that no one should be president of the United States for 16 whole years."

"I tell myself that Roosevelt is the best known American name internationally and that he should be kept in office until the boys come back home. But the same thought still sticks. Not even Jehovah himself should be given 16 years of power over this great country and its 130,000,000 people. We voters haven't the right to give anybody such influence and opportunity."

"I guess I belong to that 'one six-year term in the White House' way of thinking. Maybe we will come to that next if Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected. The pendulum is bound to swing sometime. Just imagine, can you, how we would have felt 20 years ago if somebody had told us that 16 years wasn't too long to keep the same man in the White House. Why, we would have shouted, 'Reason to the Republic!' and to the principle on which our democracy was founded."

"This isn't the first time you've heard such an argument as mine. But I had to write it and tell you. I keep worrying about what will happen to us as a nation if having broken the precedent for one president we keep on going third and fourth and maybe fifth terms to some other president."

To Get News Quicker

Have you heard this one? If you have—do not stop me.

Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin were supposedly discussing the organization of the post-war world. President Roosevelt, the story goes, said that in view of his long term as president of the United States, longer than anybody else had ever had, it would be appropriate that he should be appointed.

FINLAND'S DILEMMA

Finland is in a tough spot, and its leaders know it. Whichever way they turn, they are in for trouble. If they continue to stand by Germany, Russia will intensify her air raids upon Helsinki and other Finnish cities. If they agree to a peace with Russia, there are one hundred twenty thousand German troops within the little country to repeat the terrorist tactics they employed against the Italians and Mussolini was booted out of the way.

To quite of this dilemma, the Finns appear to be headed in the direction of a separate peace with Russia. This, certainly, would seem to be the lesser of two evils confronting them. And it also may be a more significant barometer of German strength than at once is apparent on the surface.

The Finns know, or they ought to know, both the Russians and the Germans. They have been enemies of the former and allies of the latter. They know the Germans are merciless in their dealings with those who forsake them and consequently, they know that if they make peace with Russia and try to get out of the war, they can expect the worst the Germans have to offer.

Is it not reasonable to assume that the Finns are convinced that Germany's worst is a lesser fate than a continuation of the attacks Russia is making? If it is also reasonable to assume that Finland has abandoned all hope of a German victory?

Finland, as a nation, is small and it has a population of less than four millions. But it has courage and it has honor and it is governed by intelligent men. They have given every evidence of a deep hatred of Russia but, even so, they are too smart to continue a hopeless struggle in the face of overwhelming odds at the side of an ally whose cause is lost.

Important events sometimes are foreshadowed by apparently unrelated happenings. In this struggle between two great powers on the eastern front, a struggle in which she has been caught in the middle, Finland's steps to abandon Germany and make peace may be the first significant appearance of the handwriting on the wall for Hitler.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

'Twas like a spring breeze in the middle of winter, and I sure wish I could have been in Reilly & Moriarty's tavern in Brooklyn, when it happened.

James Murphy, a pipefitter, didn't really mean any harm. It was simply his idea of a good time, and if people didn't appreciate his art, what could a good Irishman do but fight?

It was Murphy's day off, so he went for a morning walk. What was more natural than to drop in to Reilly & Moriarty's for a cool beer and a lifting song?

It was 11 a. m. and Moriarty was behind the bar. He let Murphy have his beer and didn't mind his singing.

"Mother Machree," Pipefitter Murphy sang, and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and "Where the River Shannon flows" and many others of the old home songs.

At 6 p. m. Reilly relieved Moriarty, and Murphy was still sipping beer and singing.

No Music In Soul
But, as Murphy related later, there was no music in Reilly's soul. When he had gone through his repertoire once, Reilly told him to shut up and refused to give him more beer.

An insult to Ireland, to art and to himself, said Murphy to himself.

That he couldn't stand, so he picked up a stool and hurled it over the bar. It broke a battery of bottles, grazed Reilly's head and crashed into the mirror.

Reilly came out from behind the bar. Murphy grabbed another stool and smashed the rest of the bottles. Soon Reilly and Murphy were on the floor, all over the floor. Somebody called the police. The Black Maria came rushing, and Patrolman John Murphy arrested Pipefitter James Murphy for almost every crime under the sun—save murder and embezzlement.

A sad, sad tale, indeed, and yet a gladsome tale.

Don't tell me again, my gentle readers, that I am blood-thirsty and uncouth and bad for the children.

I know all about brotherly love and turning the other cheek and not frequenting taverns and drinking beer.

But it must have been a grand and glorious sight!

Bottles flying, crashing glass, the Murphy and the Reilly rolling in the sawdust—maybe singing at the same time "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

That, too, is life!

HOME AND SCHOOL NOT CLOSE ENOUGH

It is a distressing fact that during the past twenty-five years the home and school have known less and less about each other, in spite of the good efforts of the PTA to bridge the gap between them.

It is appalling how few parents of children above the sixth grade know their teachers or much about the kind of work these children do at school. Everywhere we hear teachers of the higher grades and high school bemoan the indifference of parents toward their child's work at school. To encourage home-school co-operation, I have written two bulletins. Parents Can Help the Child at School and "Parents and the Child's Home Work" to be had for postage (six cents in stamps on a self-addressed envelope, sent me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City).

School Partly To Blame
Perhaps the school can be blamed in part for this indifference. Certainly, the junior and senior high school have not put forth much effort to get acquainted.

Second Half Rally Nets Stars Repeat Win Over Church Loop Kings

Those more than 900 fans who swarmed into Ben Franklin junior high's small gym last night saw a million dollar basketball show which started with the Industrial All-Stars pulling up from behind in the last half to score a repeat win over the Epworths, Church Loop Kings, 42-38.

The Eps soon grabbed the front post and gained an 11-8 first period lead which they boosted to 23-17 by halftime.

With the start of the last half, the Stars started clicking. "Dom" Covelli, the sharpie who guided Ne-Ca-Hi to the state finals in 1936, sparked a third period attack which netted the Stars 16 points and a 33-30 edge.

Eps Tie Count
Play in the fourth stizzled with the Stars holding the upper hand by a shade during most of the stanza. Trailing by four points in the last minute, the Epworths got back in the game when "Zeke" Wainio and Fred Wimer looped fielders, knotting the count at 38-38.

Bylor's pair of fouls however, poured through the mesh a few seconds later and proved to be the winning shot.

Covelli, ranged among the greatest cagers in Ne-Ca-Hi history, drew the "ahs" of the gallery with an all-around game that sparkled and was near flawless. Offensively, the little giant zipped six fielders and two fouls to lead the Stars' attack. Jay Thomas chipped in with 10 points besides unflinching an impressive defensive exhibition. Bylor accounted for nine markers.

For the Eps, Fred Wimer and Wainio shared the spotlight, dividing 22 points and playing an impressive defensive game.

Last Saturday night, the Stars overcame a 15-point lead to defeat the Epworths, 38-37.

Bronzers Lose Crown In Closing 33 Seconds Before Overflow Crowd

Nick Horney's Overhead Shot Ends Thrill-Studded Setto; Contest Close Throughout; Pitzer, Series Star, Flips Dozen Points; Santangelo, Davis Top Scorers For Champs; Over 900 Excited Fans Overtax Franklin Gym; Red Cross To Receive Between $850-$950 Donation.

In a game bountifully supplied with Hollywood-like thrills and spectacular play, Shenango Pottery's game passers defeated an equally bold Johnson Bronze aggregation in the last 33 seconds, 28-26, to capture the 1943-44 championship of the Industrial league. The three-game series wind up, staged on Ben Franklin junior high's court Wednesday night, lured more than 900 pop-eyed fans.

Nick Horney's perfect overhead shot from outside the foul circle, four seconds after "Bus" Davis deadlocked the count, 26-26, with an eye-lifting one-handed flip, proved to be the series-winning shot. The Pottery passers, led by Pitzer, passed up a foul try in the closing seconds, electing to take the ball out of bounds and held possession until the whistle shrieked.

With three minutes to go, Pitzer connected on one out of two fouls and dribbled in, a few seconds later, for a sensational left-handed hook shot which pushed the Bronzers ahead, 26-20.

Pitzer Leaves Game
Santangelo meshed a charity toss. Davis marched up to the free toss stripe next but missed. By Latinen nabbed the rebound pass, dribbled to the side and zipped a sparkling two-player. At the one and a half left and the count favoring JB, 26-23, Francis Pitzer, the series' standout, committed his fourth foul.

Davis, however, failed. Latinen proceeded to the foul line and coolly drained the ball through. The clock showed only 33 seconds and JB ahead 26-24. On the out of bounds play, the Pottery intercepted and Davis grabbed a pass and fired the game-tying shot.

On the next out of bounds play, following the field goal, the Pottery again intercepted. Hughes rifled to Horney. The tall athlete arrogantly idled an overhead flip—a clean fielder. The clash ended with the Pottery "freezing" perfectly.

JB was slow in getting started, trailing 5-0 before registering. Kozela's long arch came a few seconds before the close of the period.

Four Blue Jays On Holdout List

WILMINGTON, Del., March 23.—(INS)—The Phillies management backed down today from its previous statement that the entire team had been signed or agreed to terms, and admitted that Ron Norbury, Coaker Triplett, Jimmy Wadell and Charlie Letchman have spurned all offers to date.

All four, however, worked out with the Blue Jays in yesterday's indoor sessions at the armory.

Dodds Will Run In K. Of C. Meet

Boston Pastor Tries To Stretch Record-Breaking Speed Over Two-Mile Distance

By SAM FOGG
(International News Service Staff Writer)

CLEVELAND, March 23.—Gil Dodds, the Boston pastor, will endeavor to stretch his new-found record-breaking speed over a two-mile distance in the Cleveland arena Friday night when he headlines a cast of top-notch track and field stars in the annual Knights of Columbus meet.

For the first time this season, Dodds will forego the mile run in which he twice established world indoor marks in less than two weeks and will make his first assault on the two-mile indoor record set on the same track by Greg Rice. Rice raced the distance in 8:31 in the Cleveland K of C event a year ago. The former Ohio conference champion has been able to achieve only an 8:53.7 performance in the two-mile event but his recent record-smashing feats indicate his late development into one of the great stars of American track. In winning seven mile runs this season, Dodds has cut his time from 4:10.6 to the record mark of 4:04 set last Saturday in Chicago.

Tom Bell Kayoes Berger In First

CLEVELAND, March 23.—(INS)—Tommy Bell, Youngstown, Negro welterweight, today achieved full stature as a headline contender by virtue of his one-round knockout over veteran Maxie Berger.

Before 7488 Cleveland fans, Bell dispatched Berger last night with the same right-hand fury which he dubbed out 36 straight preliminary victories. He halted the Montreal veteran who lasted 15 rounds with Beau Jack with a chopping right to the head.

In the knockdown, Berger suffered an injured ankle and although willing, was unable to rise. He was counted out at 2:27.

Despite the injury, Bell's victory was nonetheless impressive. He took immediate and full command in his first blow, another savage right.

Tucker Returns To Chicago Sox
FRENCH LICK, Ind., March 23.—(INS)—The announced return of Thurman Tucker, one of the fastest men in baseball, today gave the Chicago White Sox what appeared to be the best outfield in the American League. How long Tucker will be around will depend on his draft board.

Dominic Dallessandro, who previously had refused to chase flies this year because of a salary disagreement, was in the Chicago Cubs camp in French Lick today. Still unsigned, he was expected to come to terms momentarily.

Pirates To Play Sampson Naval

PITTSBURGH, March 23.—(INS)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today announced they had completed arrangements for a game with the camp team at the Naval training station at Sampson, N. Y., May 22, and a game with Albany, N. Y., May 23.

The contests will make a break in the long jump from Pittsburgh to Boston at the start of the Buccos' first eastern trip of the 1944 season.

Hamlin Autographs Athletics' Contract

FREDERICK, Md., March 23.—(INS)—Luke Hamlin, last of the Athletics' holdouts, had checked into camp at Frederick today and signed his contract. The 39-year-old former Toronto hurler refused to say whether he had won or lost his battle for more than $5,500.

The A's will move outdoors to McGurdy field today, weather permitting.

ADAMS ENROUTE LAKEWOOD

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 23.—(INS)—Manager Mel Ott of the New York Giants was in receipt today of a telegram from holdout Ace Adams that the latter is now en route from Iron City, Ga., to present in person his demand for a 100 per cent pay increase before signing. He earned about $6,000 last year.

St. John's, DePaul Score Cage Wins

New Yorkers Kayo Kentucky, 48-45, While Chicagoans Nip Oklahomans, 41-38

NEW YORK, March 23.—(INS)—St. John's of Brooklyn and DePaul were scheduled to slug it out Sunday night in the national invitation basketball tournament final as a result of their victories last night over Kentucky and Oklahoma A. M., respectively.

All four teams gave the fans a run for their money last night, each victor winning by a margin of only three points. St. John's won, 48-45 and DePaul was victorious by 41-38.

But the St. John's-Kentucky contest provided the greatest excitement when the Brooklyn boys turned on the heat in the last 90 seconds of play. With the score tied at 45-45, Wade Dym scored from the foul line shortly after a personal was chalked up against Jack Tingle of Kentucky for a collision under St. John's basket.

A lay-up shot by Don Wehr then gave the Redmen their three-point final lead. With only seconds to go, Brannum of Kentucky missed a free throw.

Farley-Yanks Report Anew

Ex-Postmaster General Reportedly Has Backing To Purchase World Champions

By MARTHA KEARNEY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Big Jim Farley, it has been reported, may soon enter Major League baseball through purchase of the New York Yankees.

Farley is said to have the backing of Lew Wentz of Ponca City, Okla., in dickering for the New York baseball club. Wentz is a prominent oil producer and gasoline manufacturer.

The former postmaster general, who is now in the railroad and stock business, attempted to buy the Yankees two years ago and was shopping around for backers to help bankroll the venture. The price then was in the neighborhood of three and a half million dollars and Farley was unable to raise the sum.

Farley has long been interested in sports and was a ball player on his home town team in Grassy Point, N. Y., years ago. Before entering politics he was chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission for eight years.

Since Col. Jacob Ruppert's death two years ago, the Yankees have been run for the Ruppert estate by Edward J. Barrow who was general manager during the Colonel's regime.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Chucho Ramos, Venezuelan outfielder reported today at Caracas that he had accepted an offer to try-out with the Cincinnati Reds at Bloomington, Ind. Should come to the active list, he may help bolster Cleveland's catching staff. Buddy Rosar intends to stick to his Buffalo defense job according to Manager Lou Boudreau.

Trout having been stocked fishery, now worry whether or not spring high water will exact its toll. Allan Behler, Turtle Creek coach left today for naval service. Gus Cardarelli, coach at Redstone, is to be examined for service next week at Greensburg. Tippy Larkin and Allie Stoltz are scheduled to fight in New York tonight. They are lightweights. Napoleon Reyes, Cuban infielder, has two hopes: 1. to make good and 2. to become an American citizen.

Tam O'Shanter golf tourney has been listed for September 3-5. Marvin Mangus of Alcoa, a rope climber at State college yesterday won first place with 35 chins in a field embracing 2,000 service trainees. Chinning is a tough sport. Anyone who doubts the assertion, try it. Lieut. Joe Orsini, former boxing coach at Pitt is in a Maryland hospital having fractured a leg while on maneuvers at a Memphis training station.

COACH AILING
CAIRO, Ill., March 23.—(INS)—A net setback hit the Cardinal training camp today as Coach "Burr" Wares was stricken with diphtheria. Inoculations were ordered for the entire squad. Wares, 58 today, became ill Tuesday and the diphtheria diagnosis was given last night. His illness was described as mild.

ORTIZ ALL SET
COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 23.—(INS)—Roberto Ortiz, big Cuban outfielder, reports to the Washington Senators today to take over the job in right field. Ortiz was given an inside track to the position through a 304 batting average chalked up with Montreal last season.

Buddy Young, a Chicago high school track star who runs the hurdles in 9.7, has decided to enter Illinois.

Sports Ramblings

Springtime Paragraphs:—

The high quality of players in Section 21, principally in New Wilmington, is reflected in the WPAL tourney record ledgers. Kenny Cathcart, who helped the "Greyhounds" snare the B title last season, heads the list with 74 points. Paul Minner, who looped 55 markers in the '39 classic, is among the cagers occupying the upper section. Norb Borowicz, another New Wilmingtoner, copped the most valuable prize last year and Coy Craine, Wampum's ace in 1942-43, set a WPAL record by posting 472 points. The mark, however, was erased this season . . .

In view of their 15 consecutive victories against no defeats, St. Mary's Big Five feels that it deserves a chance in the current struggle for the city title. Michael Donovan, in a letter to this department, writes: "We feel that we are entitled to share in the series, in view of our record. Of course, you might think our team is only composed of high school boys but, nevertheless, the boys are fast and I think they rate the opportunity. We'll play a three game series on any high school floor" . . .

Baseball here will lose another of its key men, "Dory" Guannett. The personable east sider, who slipped in a no-hitter among a flock of other noteworthy twinning exhibitions, soon heads for service. He piloted the Elders, besides taking his turn on the hill during the last campaign. A pleasant-voiced gal phoned a query regarding the late Charles "Horse" Gillium. The inquirer wanted to know if the Ne-Ca-Hi product ever played with the New York Celtics. He certainly did and, it might be added, proved one of the greatest pros in the history of the game . . .

Detroit's outfielders, "Doc" Cramer, can expect an offer from the Brooklyn Dodgers any day now. Cramer recently forwarded his income tax report to the Tigers and his contract to the collector of "I. F." With a shortage of catchers prevalent, Lou Nova might do well to apply for backstop post. He certainly gained all the catching experience necessary in the Louis fight . . . Headline in Philly sheet: Phillies Given Commando Drill on Armory Stairs . . . Downstairs tactics, no doubt . . . The war has brought to the surface the fact that Satchel Paige, famous colored twirler, is not 40, 45 and 50 years old, as many persons have been led to believe. Recently, Paige was reclassified 1-A . . .

Kellett, Penn Cage Mentor, Rejected

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—(INS)—Don Kellett, varsity basketball coach and supervisor of freshman athletics at the University of Pennsylvania, today had been rejected for military service.

Kellett, 34-year-old father of two children, said he was turned down yesterday because of a stomach ailment.

PITCHER STARR WANTS TO QUIT

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 23.—(INS)—Ray Starr, the veteran pitcher who has spent much of his baseball career bouncing around from club to club, now wants to quit the Cincinnati Reds. Manager Bill McKechnie disclosed today.

Books Favoring Larkin Over Stolz

Odds 2-1; Pair Meets To night In 10-Round Madison Square Garden

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, March 23.—All Stolz, a curly-haired, sweet-looking kid out of Newark, N. J., is going to try again tonight to prove that he is not one of those pugilist paradoxes who should be a champion but somehow always just miss reaching the goal by the margin of a terrible performance in the ke spot.

The old-timers along Jacoby beach will tell you that he makes moves in the ring that reminds them of the great masters. They tell you that he shows them things here and there during a bout that only a potentially great fighter instinctively could know about.

Yet, when the chips are down he perpetually makes a bum out of himself and when he squares off tonight with Tippy Larkin, a no-nonsense Chinaman, Stolz will be the underdog in the wagering by one to two.

Larkin, in the 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden, should knock out his Jersey rival on sheer class. The latter hits well but with no great show of versatility. He boxes well but with the distinct mark of mediocrity on his every move and above all, he goes into a jackknif under the influence of a tap of the chin.

Bucs Play Indians Exhibition Sunday

MUNCIE, Ind., March 23.—(INS)—Despite unfavorable weather which has hampered spring training, the Pittsburgh Pirates will go through with their scheduled inaugural exhibition game against Cleveland at Muncie Sunday. Club President William Benswanger said today. Manager Frankie Frisch was able to take advantage of moderate temperatures yesterday to hold a outdoor workout, but batting practice had to be foregone because of the soggy field.

BOXER DISCHARGED
Vic DeLuitti, New York middle weight, was recently given a medical discharge by the army.
